EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

FRANCIS MURPHY, the temperance man, will sail from England for this country on September 5, in the City of Rome. His home is in Pittsburg.

MRS. GAINES has received a judgment of $1,927,000 against the city of New Orleans. An appeal will be carried into the higher courts, however.

IT is remarked that reform Governor Pattison did not veto an item of $1200 in the appropriation bill which is to be used to repair the Executive stable.

THE Watchman is disgusted with Judge Hoadley, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Ohio, and expresses itself to the effect that the least said about him the better—for the Democrats.

SENATOR STEWART, the leader of the Independent Republican forces last year, is of the opinion that the Republicans in Pennsylvania have better prospects for success now than they ever had before.

THERE are now only three men in the British House of Commons who were there when Victoria ascended the throne, forty-six years ago. They are Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Talbot, member for Glamorganshire, and Mr. Villers, member for Wolverhampton. Earl Grey is the only living member of the Cabinet that was in office at that time.

THE latest and most trustworthy reports from the interior of the State show that among farmers of progressive ideas Paris green is losing ground as a regular article of diet. In several isolated cases, however, it has been found that the man who eats Paris green and the man who blows out the gas still have many sympathies in common.

GENERAL BEAVER was the orator of the day at the unveiling of the soldiers' monument at Germantown on the Fourth of July. After talking about a half hour, however, he was overcome by the heat and was unable to proceed, Gen. Louis A. Wagner, who acted as chairman of the meeting, reading the remainder of the speech from manuscript.

WE are sorry that Governor Pattison vetoed the bill appropriating $40,920 and the interest on the proceeds of the sale of the State farms in Indiana and Lancaster counties to the establishment of an agricultural experiment station at State College. The bill was drafted by President Atherton and was an excellent measure which would have greatly benefited the College. The Governor's approval was confidently expected.

THE Republican party of Iowa will train under the banner of prohibition during the coming campaign. Seventy-nine Republican county conventions have so far been held, out of which fifty nine have declared by resolutions in favor of constitutional and statutory prohibition. These counties will have 495 votes in the state convention, out of a total of 844. Six counties, with 61 votes, are divided, and five counties, with 53 votes, are instructed against prohibition.

A Substantial Platform.

A party standing on a safe, strong platform is bound to succeed. The platform adopted by the Republicans is endorsed and praised by all the newspaper in the party. The Philadelphia North American is of the opinion that it is rather a better specimen of platform literature than has been presented by any State Convention of any party latterly, and in some respects it recalls the force and directness of the utterances of the party twenty years ago.

The plan of starting out with the most important utterance of all, and of using unequivocal language in defining the position of the party upon the fundamental question of national economy, is not enough to be applauded. For while the position of the party as respects protection to American labor is known of all men, it is altogether better to emphasize a confession of political faith on every proper occasion, and a Convention is always a proper occasion.

The tariff plank is most admirably drawn and clearly expressed. It expresses exactly what the party means by protection, namely, the development of skilled labor, and the maintenance of a just wage rate for labor. The true end of protection is the extension of the field of competition all over the land, and that discrimination in favor of native enterprise, invention, skill and capital which enables our men of action to pay living wages, secure an adequate plant, and advance production to that strong position where it can compete with the outside world. This carries with it the necessity or occasional readjustments of tariff rates. The system adopted by the Republican party is not the rigid system maintained for centuries by England. Nor is it maintained simply, as some allege, to foster monopoly, but to render trade actually free by equalizing opportunity. We must be industrially independent, or what is called political independence can rise no higher in the scale than a specious sham.

We are not so greatly inclined to favor the second resolution, which declares for the distribution of surplus revenues among the States to relieve local taxation and provide means for educating the people. The experiment has been tried twice, and the results do not promise a general endorsement of the plan. We have no idea that the United States will be troubled with any great excess of revenue beyond what the necessities of the Treasury will require for any considerable time. Just now there is an excess of revenue above what is required for current use. But a single swallow does not make a summer, nor can our present condition be expected to last uninterruptedly until 1907. The resolution can do no particular harm, nor will it probably add much to the strength of the party this year or next. The Democrats can always beat us in making promises.

The cordial endorsement of the administraton of President Arthur was a graceful act, and the more to be applauded because it is a fair acknowledgement on the part of the party that he has administered his trust with great fidelity and judgment. The declaration against pauper emigration is pertinent, and the Republican party can do no better than to insist on the strictest defenses against such a practice.

FROM the Toledo (Ohio) Telegram: "For any defense of Republican policy or the Republican party in the past—if defense were needed—we take pleasure in referring our Democratic friends to Judge Hoadley, Second-Hand Republican and New Democrat. The Judge has but lately been left by us, and he was with us and of us during all the time so vividly objectionable to our Democratic friends. He can tell them all about it as to any little discrepancies of opinion."

Work of the Republican State Convention.

We most cordially endorse the following remarks on the recent Republican State Convention from the Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin: When the convention was organized it proceeded to work with a will, and owing to the good feeling which prevailed, its work was promptly and satisfactorily done. The address of Chairman Cessna was temperate and in good taste, and the convention was at once put in a condition to act on his advice. Every man present seemed imbued with a sentiment of harmony, and every man carried out that idea. The platform is terse, clear and emphatic. It gives forth no uncertain sound. It boldly and emphatically endorses the doctrine of home protection for the benefit of the laboring element and the country, and charges the state administration with forcing an enormous expenditure of the public funds by calling an extra session of the legislature. The Democratic house is charged with retarding the work of apportionment by making unreasonable demands. The endorsement of the national administration was eminently proper and will meet the approbation of the party. The platform and the primary election question disposed of, the convention proceeded to the work of nominating a candidate for state treasurer. The nominee is a gentleman of experience and ability. He served as cashier under Treasurer Butler, and when Captain Nutt was murdered by Dukes he was recalled to the treasury by General Baily, and he is now performing the duties of cashier. Mr. Livsey comes from Pittsburg, and the fact that he made no canvass for the place, but was taken up almost spontaneously and nominated, shows how the delegates felt in the matter. There was no slate nor any attempt at forming one. It was apparent to all the old time bosses, that nothing of the kind would be tolerated. Mr. Livsey will be triumphantly elected. Allegheny county will roll up one of her old time majorities for him. Public sentiment had so long pointed to the nomination of Mr. Niles for auditor general, that it was regarded as certain. He is an experienced and able representative, and has long been regarded as one of the ablest men in that body. He, too, will be elected, because the entire ticket is going through with a rush. That is almost conceded by the Democrats themselves.

A Firecracker Fourth.

That's just what last Fourth of July was not. There might have been the usual amount of patriotism slumbering deep in the hearts of old and young America, but genuine explosions of powder were few and far between notwithstanding the very inspiring exercises which occurred in Bellefonte.

In the City of Brotherly Love the explosion of the cracker was forbidden and more than Sabbath stillness is said to have prevailed. The vast throngs of city people to the number of 120,000 found their way to some summer resort and their spent the Memorable Independence Day quietly and pleasantly.

In other cities a similar condition of affairs existed. No great fires from the little crackers grew, no fatal accidents resulted from exploding pyrotechnics. Even the toy pistol figured less prominently than usual as a source of innumerable painful accidents terminating in lock-jaw.

The modern Fourth of July may be an improvement on that of former years. It may be quite proper to repress patriotism or allow it to blossom only in æsthetic quietness. But it is not the sort of a Fourth of July which the signers of the Declaration of Rights contemplated 107 years ago when the mighty patriot John Adams, characterizing the event as the most memorable epoch in the history of America, said "I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be commemorated as the day of deliverance, by solemn acts of devotion to Almighty God. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations, from one end of the continent to the other, and from this time forth forevermore!"

Only a few years more than a century have passed since John Hancock affixed his name to the Declaration in characters so prominent that they could be seen across the Atlantic. Let not the act be forgotten. But let us observe it more extensively as time passes into history.

THE universal opinion among Republicans is that the ticket nominated by the Republican Convention at Harrisburg is an exceptionally strong one. The candidates are men of large experience, and will without doubt, when elected, prove to be faithful public officers. Mr. William Livsey, the candidate for State Treasurer, will bring into that office a practical knowledge of its workings which cannot fail to be of advantage, and he is an example of one of the best principles of civil service reform, the promotion of subordinate officers who have proved themselves capable to fill positions of higher trust. Mr. Jerome B. Niles, the candidate for Auditor General, is a true Republican, and he is a representative as well of that spirit of revolt from the autocratic rule of party leaders which culminated in the Independent movement of last year. The Republican party seems to be once more harmonious and united, and an old-time Republican victory may be looked for in the fall.

THERE is seldom smoke without some little fire, and therefore the vague rumors of a projected strike by the telegraphic fraternity of the United States have probably some foundation in fact. It may not be denied that such a movement would be fraught with much inconvenience and would bring us face to face with a condition of affairs similar to that of a generation or so back; but the leaking out of the project will rob it of much of its potency. Such a combination as that indicated involves, however, a great threat to commercial and social interests, and it is just possible that active cooperation in it might bring the participants within the scope of anti-conspiracy laws. It ought to do so, at any rate.—Phila. North American.

AS WE expected and predicted, the proceedings at the Republican State Convention were entirely harmonious and satisfactory, and they served to show that it is not necessary to the efficient dispatch of political business that everything should be cut and dried. One of the note-worthy and commendable features of the Convention was the absence of anything like a slate, and it was this circumstance which secured that good feeling and unity of action which were so conspicuous. There is no fault to be found with the nominees. Both are good men, who may be trusted to poll the regular party vote. But what will go furthest to render them generally acceptable is the manner of their nomination.

THAT highly respectable and eminently genteel conservator of antiquated facts, the BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN, has of late been publishing, over and over, ideas concerning protection that were deemed obsolete long before the editor of that sheet was old enough to swap knives on a "free trade" basis. And that was not last year, either.—Centre Democrat.

Facts, even if antiquated, are preferable to modern fiction. We admit that some of the protection arguments we use have borne the assaults of free trade for centuries and they loom up before the vision of an unterrified Democracy as irrefutable as ever.

THE conduct of the French authorities recalls the classic saying that whom the gods would destroy they first make mad, for certainly M. Ferry and his colleagues seem to have taken leave of their senses. They have alienated every country in Continental Europe by their diplomatic imbecility; they have persistently invited the powerful antagonism of the Vatican; they have gone very far with their brag and bluster in Annam to make a Franco-Chinese war inevitable, and they have managed to change the British from friends to neutrals, and from neutrals to enemies. Nothing could have been more arrogant, more heartless and more impolitic than the treatment of that British Consul in Madagascar, and though an apology may be accepted, a bad feeling will remain.

SAMUEL J. RANDALL, LL D., has not become so high-toned since he fell heir to an honorable degree as to lose his ancient cunning in the manipulation of the lever. "I am a Democrat and nothing else," says he. "My name will go before the Democratic caucus for speaker, and I know enough to feel certain that I will be its nominee for that office. If there shall be any bolt it will not be any friends of mine, and all statements to the contrary are entirely without warrant. I am not a candidate directly or remotely for any other office than that of Speaker." That's right Sam—beg pardon, Hon. Samuel J. Randall, LL. D.

THE Republican State Convention was a harmonious gathering and even the Philadelphia Times is willing to admit that not a trace of Cameronism was observable in it. William Livsey, of Allegheny was nominated for State Treasurer and Jerome B. Niles for Auditor General. These nominations give great satisfaction. A sound and conservative platform of principles was adopted which our readers will find on the second page of this issue. Now every Republican should vote for the ticket.

WITH regard to paying off the national debt, ex-Secretary McCulloch says: "It appears to me that it is advisable to leave a portion of the public debt unpaid. At one time we heard a great deal about not handing down a debt to posterity, but in my opinion a national debt should be maintained, say about $160,000,000. I say this because it is a fact that government securites fill a place that can be filled by no other securities, and are perfectly safe."

NEW YORK Tribune: "Any polar expedition that is out of a job can hear of something to its advantage by addressing the national Democratic committee. What the committee is anxious to have discovered is the precise position of the democracy on the tariff question. The committee must begin to suspect that position is very miscellaneous."

A FEW months ago Stewart, in Democratic eyes, was as big as that majestic orb, the moon at full, and now he is smaller than the remotest star twinkling in space. The optics of a Democrat are constructed on the theory of the telescope. It depends upon which end you look in.

REFORM this year. Success this year, and the election of a Republican President is made certain by the unanimous action of the republican convention, and the hearty endorsements of the nominations of Livsey and Niles by the Republican voters all over the State.

A NATIONAL association has been organized for the purpose of building a monument to Thomas Jefferson and Governor Pattison has been chosen President of the Pennsylvania branch.

GEN. TOM THUMB, the world-renowned dwarf, is dead.

AT THE SPRINGS.

He whistled, laughed and sang
Almost within a breath;
He seemed a man, indeed.
Who was tickled near to death.

He stood upon his head,
Did other foolish things:
He was happiness itself—
For his wife was at the springs.

Where'er were pretty girls,
In the theatre or show,
There, too, he sat him down
In the first and foremost row.

And he writes his darling ducky;
"I'm dead while you're away,
But if you're well and happy,
Don't shorten, dear, your stay."

And she reads his loving letter
As she sits beneath the shade
And spoons with Dobbs, the masher,
And sips her lemonade.

She writes him back an answer
Filled with sympathy and love:
"I'll stay a fortnight longer;
Be good, old ducky dove."

IN THE SHADE.

The fat man,
With big fan,
Lolls around on a rattan divan!
Every spot
Awfully hot;
Doesn't care whether he dies or not.

The small boy,
Full of joy,
Finds much fun without alloy;
In the stream
White with gleam;
To him life seemed no more than a dream.

Boy sees man
On divan;
Wishes that he could have a fan
And lie at ease on a cool rattan.
Man sees boy
Splash with joy;
Wishes he could his time employ
Bobbing around in the stream so coy.

NINETY-NINE IN THE SHADE.

O for a lodge in a garden of cucumbers!
O for an iceberg or two at control!
O for a vale that at midday the dew cumbers!
O for a pleasure trip up to the pole!
O for a little one story thermometer!
With nothing but zeroes all ranged in a row!
O for a big double-barrelled hygrometer,
To measure the moisture that rolls from my brow!
O that this cold world were twenty times colder!
(That's irony red-hot it seemeth to me),
O for a turn of its dreaded cold shoulder!
O what a comfort an ague would be!
O for a grotto frost lined and rill riven,
Scooped in the rock under cataract vast!
O for a soda fount spouting up boldly
From every hot lamp post against the hot sky!
O for proud maiden to look on me coldly,
Freezing my soul with a glance of her eye!
Then for a draught from a cup of cold pizen!
And O for a through ticket, via Coldegrave,
To the baths of the Styx, where a thick shadow lies on
And deepens the chill on its dark running wave!

Our Story Teller.

In His True Light.

"Shall I have the pleasure of your company to Lake Weldon to-morrow, Mabel?"

"I have a prior engagement."

Charlie Sheldon's handsome face flushed angrily, and he arose from the chair in which he had been sitting, under the vine-sheltered piazza.

"I beg you pardon," he said stiffly. "I did not know that such was the fact."

"Now, don't be absurd, Charlie. When the picnic was announced I expected to go with you, of course. But the days went by, and I received no intimation of your intentions, and when Mr. Greeley—"

"That puppy," broke in Charlie.

"It isn't manly or generous in you to allude to him in such a manner in his absence," said Mabel. "He is very refined and entertaining, and I think he is nice."

"He is a conceited coxcomb! But excuse me; I forgot that he was your friend. Good night, Miss Linscott!"

"Good night!"

The young man raised his hat formally, and took a hasty departure.

"How unreasonable he is!" thought Mabel, as the sound of his rapid foot-steps on the gravelly walk died away. "He defers to ask me to accompany him to the picnic until the last moment, and is offended because in the meantime I have accepted another invitation."

Charlie Sheldon went striding homeward, angry and jealous. He unlocked the street door with a snap, stalked up the stairs into his room, and without lighting the gas, groped his way to the easy chair by the window, threw open the blinds and lit a cigar.

"Put not your trust in women," he mused, savagely, as the white smoke-wreaths floated out on the balmy July air. "I suppose I am a confounded idiot for taking it for granted so long that Mabel would go to the picnic with no one else. She knew that I meant to ask her. Well, another prop to my belief in feminine human nature has been broken."

He had known Mabel ever since he was a boy of twelve, and she a dainty miss four years younger. He made her acquaintance and won her gratitude, by rescuing a poor, persecuted dog from a band of juvenile tormentors. They were fast friends after that.

The reply which Mabel had given him, when he extended her his tardy invitation to attend the picnic at Lake Weldon, with him, the next day, began to open his eyes to the unwelcome truth.

To add to the sting of the refusal, if there was a man in the wide world whom easy-going Charley Sheldon heartily despised, it was Guy Greeley. They had grown up together, and were classmates in college. Guy was an orphan and inherited a large fortune.

Years before, when they were schoolmates, Charley had been severely punished for an offense which Guy had committed, and which he had not the manliness to acknowledge. For this wrong he had never made apology. Then, in college, there were stories in circulation seriously affecting Guy's reputation, and he lost caste among the undergraduates.

After completing his studies at Harvard, Guy spent two years abroad, yachting in the Mediterranean, with young scions of British nobility; idling in London, Paris and Rome, and rambling over the Continent. Then he returned to his native town, Edgecombe, and began to read law in a languid way in the office of his uncle, Judge Greeley.

Charley, meanwhile, was hard at work, assisting his father in the management of his extensive granite business.

The morning of the day of the picnic dawned bright and beautiful. Charley ate his breakfast in moody silence and started for the quarries. He was in no mood for joining his friends at the lake, and preferred to spend the day at his customary vocation.

By 9 o'clock the carriages began to pass the quarries for the lake. There were barges drawn by two and four horses, full of merry children; stylish turnouts with happy young couples, and family vehicles of all descriptions. It was the annual excursion and picnic of St. Mark's parish and Sunday school and the attendance was always large.

In one of the carriages Charlie caught a glimpse of Guy and Mable as they drove past the office. Mable gave him a bright smile and nod of recognition, which he hardly acknowledged, and Guy bowed triumphantly as he touched his horse's glossy side with a whip, from which fluttered a jaunty blue ribbon—Mable's favorite color.

Charlie shut his teeth grimly together and worked away doggedly at his books. But it was with the utmost difficulty that he could concentrate his mind upon the task before him. There were mistakes in the footings, and more than once he detected himself making a wrong entry.

Five o'clock in the afternoon came at last, almost time for the return of some of the excursionists.

Up the road the workmen were preparing for a blast. How still it was that July afternoon! Not a breath of air was stirring.

Charlie could hear the steady ring of the hammers upon the steel drills, and the creak of the great derricks. All at once the hum of industry ceased, and he knew the workmen had laid down their tools and were standing at a safe distance to watch the explosion.

"Boom!" went the powder, with a muffled, heavy report.

Following the detonation came a shriek, and the cries of men. Charlie rushed to the door of the office, and his cheek blanched at the sight which met his gaze.

Coming madly down the road was a black horse, attached to a stylish buggy, containing one occupant—a woman! The horse had evidently been frightened at the explosion, and was running away.

Should the wheels of the carriage strike an obstruction, or the woman be thrown out among the sharp, jagged rocks on either side of the road, death would be the result.

"Heavens! it's Mabel," exclaimed Charlie, as his swift glance discovered the identity of the occupant of the buggy.

His decision was formed in an instant. He had been a noted athlete in college, and now he counted upon his strength and agility to save Mabel from her doom.

He rushed out into the road, looking like a young Apollo in the slanting sunshine of the dying afternoon.

As the frightened horse came abreast, Charlie sprang for the bridle, caught it, and, avoiding the hoofs of the maddened animal, clung to it desperately, utilizing his strength and weight to pull the horse down.

The animal's mad gallop slackened; he could not endure the strain upon his neck, and the flush of his mad terror was gone. The gallop subsided into a trot; the trot become a walk; then the horse came to a standstill, trembling and covered with foam.

Charlie stepped lightly into the buggy by the side of Mabel.

She had not fainted, but her face was as white as though carved out of marble.

She grasped his strong right arm convulsively.

"You have saved my life," she said, simply.

"How did it happen?"

"The horse was frightened by the explosion and became unmanageable."

"Where is your friend—Mr. Greeley?"

"When he saw that he could not control the horse he leaped out."

"And left you to your fate?"

"Yes."

"The cowardly scoundrel!" said Charlie, indignantly, gathering up the reins. "I will drive you home."

"Oh, if you only will? But what will become of Mr. Greeley?"

"The workmen at the quarry will look after him," said Charlie, significantly.

"They won't hurt him?" Mable inquired apprehensively.

"Oh, no! They will teach him a useful lesson—that's all."

They drove slowly along the quiet road to Edgecombe village. As they passed through a grove of maples, whose over-arching branches made a grateful shade, Charlie said:

"I did wrong to fly into a passion last night because my invitation to the picnic was made too late. But in the future"—here Charlie's right arm somehow found its way around Mable's waist—"may I have the right to take it for granted that you will go with me, and no one else?"

"I will go to the ends of the earth with you, Charlie."

The horse stopped.

A few moments later, the carriage emerged from the little clump of woods containing two young persons with very radiant faces.

"I am willing to call it 'quits' with Greeley," said Charlie as they reached the village. "He took you to the picnic, and I took you home. I guess we are even."

Greeley escaped rough handling by the quarrymen, thanks to his fleetness of foot, and made the best of his way homeward. Gathering up his effects, he left Edgecombe on the Pullman that very night, called "out West by sudden and very urgent business," it is said. As he has not yet returned, it is fair to infer that he has not transacted the 'business.'

Opium in Cigars.

Now that frequent raids are being made in the large cities on opium dens, and efforts are frequently put forth to break up the indulgence in the terrible habit, it is a good time to call public attention to one way in which the habit may unconsciously be contracted. It is well known that once formed it clings with the grasp of death.

Every now and then an item will appear in a newspaper stating that dangerous drugs are used in the manufacture of cigars and cigarettes with the object of imparting to them a fine flavor. When the fight was made some time ago by the newspapers against the vice of smoking cigarettes, it was shown that many brands of them contained opium as well as other drugs. That the same is true of many kinds of alleged imported cigars cannot be doubted, as evidence has frequently been made public to prove it. It is a fact recently discovered that cigars made of the finest tobacco and heavily impregnated with opium are now manufactured in San Francisco especially for the use of opium smokers.

This subject will certainly bear further investigation by those in a position to institute it. In the meantime it would be well for people to make sure of the kind of cigars they use if such a thing is possible, or else smoke those made by manufacturers at home who are known to be trustworthy.

Gen. Lee's Will.

Extract from the last will and testament of Gen. Charles Lee (the rival of Washington) made 1782. This extract is from the original will filed in Berkley county court house, West Virginia, and copied June 25th, 1883, by Hon. Joseph M'Donald, of Cambria county, Pa.: "To my good friend, John Mercer, Esq., of Mariboro, in Virginia, I give and bequeath the choice of two brood mares, of all my swords and pistols, and two guineas to buy a ring.

"I would give him more, but as he has a good estate and better genius, he has sufficient if he knows how to make good use of them.

"I desire, most earnestly, that I may not be buried in any church or churchyard, or within a mile of any Presbyterian or Annabaptist meeting house, for, since I have resided in this country, I have kept so much bad company while living that I do not choose to continue it when dead. I recommend my soul to the Creator of all worlds and all creatures, who must from his visible attributes be indifferent to their modes of worship or creeds, whether Christian, Mahomedan, or Jews; whether instilled by education, or taken up by reflection; whether more or less absurd. As a weak mortal can no more be answerable for his persuasion, notion, or even skepticism in religion than for the color of his skin."

A Church with a Marble Spire.

New York Times.

The rector, church wardens and vestrymen of Grace Church have filed specifications and plans for a marble spire to the church, which will weigh about six hundred tons, cost $60,000, and tower to a distance of 219 feet from the street. There will be nine stories in the spire and a tower. The architecture will harmonize with that of the church. The spire is to be of white marble, and will be surmounted by a copper and glass cross, which is to be illuminated at night. The tower was designed originally for a wooden spire, but the foundation and walls, except those of top story, were made of sufficient strength to carry a stone spire. Funds for this were lacking and a wooden spire, taken down last year, was built. The top of the tower will be strengthened by iron beams resting on wrought iron templates six inches thick. On these beams will be eight cast iron posts, on which will rest a second double tier of iron beams, which will support the base of the spire. They will be laid on blue gneiss templates, 12 inches thick. The tower will be covered with two feet 6 inches of marble with a centre opening. The base of the tower is 26 feet square.

A Most Remarkable Case.

Dying—yet living. DR. MILLER, of 129 South Tenth Street, Philadephia, says: "I am personally acquainted with a middle-aged lady in Philadelphia, who had been given up to die by a consultation of many physicians. She was confined to her bed for months, and was momentarily expected to die. In this condition she took Manalin and, to the surprise and disappointment of all, she recovered her health perfectly. Her case is reported in DR. HARTMAN'S Book on the "Ills of Life," 31st page. Ask your Druggist for one, or address DR. HARTMAN, Osborn, O.

On Board the Steamer "Servia."

JUNE 20th, 1883.

The morning of the 13th of June was beautiful, but warm and close. The Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, had no attractions for us. Getting ready for breakfast and packing did not go well. Nothing at the breakfast table tasted good except the strawberries. We took a carriage for the Cunard pier at 9 o'clock a. m., and were refreshed by the ride down town. As we had steamer trunks we took them with us to our state room and were pleased with the appearance of our cabin. It was neat and tidy and comfortable. We soon returned to the deck of the steamer, and it now being within an hour for the sailing of the vessel, the hurry, bustle and confusion were indescribable. There was a perfect jam both on the pier and on the deck. The bell soon signaled that all except the passengers must leave the boat. Such a hand shaking and bidding good bye I never saw. The only friend to bid us good bye was Mr. Alfred Nicholls, who had come over from Brooklyn to see us off. When the steamer started such cheering and waving of handkerchiefs I never witnessed. The monster steamer was first started by a tug boat. She soon needed no help and proudly steamed down the bay. It seemed to me more like a picnic party than anything else. The morning was beautiful; the dining room tables were loaded with beautiful and fragrant flowers, the gifts of friends. The different points of interest afforded us sailing down the bay were very fine. Every body seemed to be happy. About lunch time we reached Sandy Hook and entered the ocean. At lunch I told Mrs. Hayes that my head felt a little queer and that I was slightly dizzy, and by the time I had finished eating my mutton broth, I said I would not eat any more, but would return to the deck. As we returned to the deck we noticed it was fast becoming cloudy, the wind was rising and it soon began to rain and the steamer rolled a good deal. I noticed, too, that the gayety, laughter and general good feeling had largely disappeared, and that the passengers were becoming quiet and disposed to close their eyes and lay back on their steamer chairs. And when dinner was announced and the deck steward said he would serve the soup to us on deck I felt more like knocking him down than eating his soup. I did not eat any soup nor take any dinner—Mrs. Hayes, however, managed to take some dinner. Very few were able to dine that evening. Nearly every one on board experienced more or less sea-sickness. We went early to our State room and felt very miserable. Robert McKnight had told Mrs. Hayes to supply herself with peppermint drops, as they were excellent for sea-sickness. We procured some before coming aboard and resorted to them early, but the more we took of them the worse we got. We never want to see peppermint drops again. And if Robert McKnight ever says peppermint drops to us again we will not pay any more gas bills. Mr. Buck, of Bellefonte, also gave us a remedy which we also tried on the second day, but all in vain. It did us no good whatever. I had made up my mind before crossing that there was no specific for sea sickness, and I am of the same opinion. Still I was dreadful sick from Wednesday night till Sunday. When I rolled into my berth on Wednesday night I would have been just as well satisfied to have rolled into the ocean. Mrs. Hayes had a much lighter attack—not coming on so soon nor lasting so long. She could cast up her accounts very earnestly for a few minutes and then laugh the next. I was sick all the time. The truth is I was not well when I left Bellefonte. I had been overworked and not in good condition for the voyage. Since Sunday we have been getting along splendidly. Mrs. Hayes was able to attend service on Sabbath, but I remained on deck. We have had a rough voyage. Tuesday was the first day that was anyways smooth. No white caps were visible on that day—and we enjoyed it thoroughly. We have most delightful people on board and are now enjoying the trip very much.

I could tell you many things about our voyage and about our ship, the "Servia," but it is too rough to write legibly, and I am not equal to it. I wished to send some word to my numerous friends at Bellefonte and vicinity, and write this for their benefit. This is Wednesday and to-morrow morning we expect to reach Queenstown when the cable will inform you of our safe arrival.

Your friend,
THOS. R. HAYES.

To E. T. Tuten, Esq., Bellefonte, Pa.

The Ancient City of Chester.

SECOND LETTER.

June 25, 1883.

We reached Queenstown on the 21st instant, 7 days and 21 hours from New York. Early the next morning we landed at Liverpool. After our trunks were opened and examined at the Custom House we at once took the train for Chester. Liverpool is an interesting commercial city, but we did not stop to visit it. It is the 2d city of Great Britain, situated on the Mersey, and has the largest seaport in the world, the docks being six miles in extent. We were delighted to get on a train of cars again, and enjoyed the ride to Chester, a distance of 20 miles. We are constantly seeing new things to us. The trains are very long, but the cars are not so long as in America. The seats are arranged like carriages, and you are closed up as in a double carriage. Your baggage is put into a separate compartment in the rear or in the front of your carriage. No one can come into your carriage after the train starts, neither can you leave your carriage while the train is moving. You show your ticket before entering the gate to the train, and your ticket is punched at some station. Another thing that attracts your attention is the absence of noise, bustle and commotion. And if you make any inquiries you are invariably answered politely. The stations are built in the most substantial manner of stone and brick. The floors are all of heavy flags. As we were whirled along the country looked so beautiful and green, we thought we never saw such pretty trees and flowers. There was one continuous hedge of green on each side of the track from Liverpool to Chester.

We are so much pleased with the quaint old town of Chester that we are slow to leave it. We are at the Queen Hotel. There is the same absence of noise and confusion at the hotel. A lady clerk writes down our names and we are at once shown to our rooms. Everything is so neat and tidy you cannot help but feel at home. We pay for our room and order all our meals which are served in the ladies' coffee room. We had been advised by Mr. James Milliken, of Bellefonte, to visit Chester and we have been well repaid. Chester has a history of 2,000 years. In the first century the Romans built a stone wall around the city, completely enclosing it, two and a half miles in length. The walls have been kept in repair to this day, and at the present time on top of the walls is a promenade of heavy flags. The first day we were here Mrs. Hayes and I walked round the walls and viewed the many interesting objects. The first object of interest to attract our attention was a large mouldering stone tower. Approaching quite near we read over its portal, "King Charles stood on this tower September 24th, 1645, and saw his army defeated on Rowton Moor." Rugged steps lead to its summit, and from the summit there is a grand view. The next object of interest is the Castle. To describe the Castle would take too much time. Some portions of it are as old as the walls. This has been the military end of the city and is now occupied as the Barracks. From the Castle we have a good view of the river Dee of classic fame. We also see the magnificent stone bridge with its unequalled single stone arch of 200 feet—said to be the largest stone arch in the world. Next we came to Egbert cave. It is simply an opening in the projecting rock and was occupied at one time by the Saxon monarch. It is simply impossible to write about the many other objects of interest to be seen on the walls. Leaving the walls the first place we visited was the Cathedral. The tower was built in the year 1201. The general view of the Cathedral is cruciform and is an immense and venerable pile of stone—too difficult for me to describe. The interior is grand beyond degree. Portions of it have existed for many centuries. The fine large windows are full of subjects in stained glass. Many interesting old and new monuments are to be seen. The flags carried at Bunker Hill are to be seen here. We heard the magnificent organ and the sweetest chime of bells. We also visited Eaton Hall, the princely seat of the Duke of Westminster. We were charmed and delighted reviewing the most elegant mansion externally and internally we ever saw. We were especially delighted with the flowers. I think I will astonish the Bellefonte ladies who have so many pretty geraniums when I tell them that we saw one geranium eighteen feet high and ten feet wide and laden with flowers. Mrs. Hayes had a bouquet of heliotrope presented to her. The heliotrope was the same height as the geranium. On Saturday forenoon we revisited the market. In the first place the market building is very fine—a large and elegant stone building—with everything about it so neat and tidy. The stands are loaded with vegetables, meats, fruit and flowers. The flowers smell so sweetly and are in great profusion. I selected a large bouquet of white pinks for Mrs. Hayes and the price was only one penny. Such cherries and strawberries I never saw. The cucumbers are as long as your arm. The meats and fish were very fine. We saw many other things of interest to describe which would take too long. I will conclude this letter by telling you that the street cars are here called tramways. They look like our street cars in America, except that there are seats on top of the cars as well as inside. T. R. HAYES.

What a Farmer Needs.

A farmer needs his vacation just as much as any man of business needs one. A week's run to town after the busy season is over will do him a world of good. And they need to visit other farmers, to learn, if possible, easier or better methods of farming or of living. They need to attend farmers' conventions and organizations to gain new ideas—something to broaden or enlarge their views of life. People who always stay at home are sure to seek dark sides and shadows of their own lives. They need to learn and to realize that storms and droughts and thunders and showers and freshets visit other farms beside their own; that weeds and insects thrive in all degrees of longitude; that flies and dirt accumulate and annoy other households beside the ones that they preside over. In short, they need to learn how other people live. Could farmers manage so as to be confined less to their farms, could they work more in partnership, as do men in other business, or could they believe it profitable to employ a higher grade of laborers—men whom they could trust alone for a day or week, or could they earlier train their sons and daughters to have a care and an interest in the affairs of the household, then they could oftener find the opportunity for leaving the farm for a short season of recreation and enjoyment, and thus be in reality what they have the name of being, the most independent class of people in the world.

Resolutions Adopted by the Republican State Convention.

The republican party of Pennsylvania makes declaration of its principles as follows:

First. We unqualifiedly approve and demand the continuance of that system of protection to the home industry which has proved itself to be the basis of national independence, the incentive to industrial skill and the development and guarantee of a just and adequate scale of wages for labor, and we denounce all attempts to reduce the rates of the tariff below the level which will accomplish these objects.

Second. That any surplus in the public treasury arising from redundant revenue should, after paying the national debt as fast as its condition permits, be distributed from time to time to the several states upon the basis of population to relieve them from the burdens of local taxation and to provide means for the education of their people.

Third. That as the depreciated trade dollar is largely in the hands of our laboring people and is a disturbing element in the business of the country, we declare it to be the duty of congress to adopt such legislation as will insure its full redemption and conversion into other coin for circulation.

Fourth. That we protest against the practice of foreign government in aiding or enforcing the emigration of their paupers and criminal classes to this country, and we call upon the general government to take proper steps to prevent the same.

Fifth. The republicans of Pennsylvania most heartily endorse the wise and conservative administration of Prresident Arthur and believe that his administrative policy has, under the circumstances, done much to secure the present happy and prosperous condition of the country, and that we recognize in him a faithful and worthy successor to our lamented martyr President, James A. Garfield.

Sixth. We heartily approve of the provision made by the republicans in congress for giving the patriotic soldiers of the late war a preference according to the qualifications for positions under the government. The soldiers and sailors, their widows and orphans, have a first claim on the care, protection and gratitude of the American people.

Seventh. We commend every effort to inaugurate a thorough and correct civil service reform in all the departments of the national and state administrations

We require that all offices bestowed within the party shall be upon the sole basis of fitness; that competent and faithful officers shall not be removed except for cause, and that the ascertained popular will shall be faithfully carried out by those holding office by the favor of the party.

Ninth. That the republican party is unequivocally committed to an economical administration of the affairs of the commonwealth, the abolition of all taxes not required for the necessities of the state government; that all laws to prevent fraud and waste should be enforced, and faithful care given to the multifarious interests entrusted to the executive departments of the governments.

Tenth. That the republican party of Pennsylvania hereby pledges itself to secure the passage of such legislation as will tend to the reform of the government of the state and its municipalities, and more particularly pledges itself to provide for cities such reform charters as will correct existing abuses and promote good and economical government.

Eleventh. That the democratic party in the legislature of Pennsylvania is responsible for retarding the legitimate and necessary business of the legislature, causing the calling of an extra session at an expense of more than $200,000, and preventing a fair and just apportionment of the state and congressional, legislative and judicial districts, and we hereby heartily commend the action of the republican senate on these measures.

WHEREAS, It is the sense of the convention that the freest and fullest expression of republican sentiments should be encouraged and sought in primary meetings, which are the fountain of party action and the source of popular rule, and that this object will be promoted by holding the primaries for the election of delegates to the state convention throughout the state as far as possible on the same convenient day, not remote from the convention; therefore,

Resolved, That the state committee be instructed to inquire into the expediency of fixing a uniform day throughout the state for the holding of primaries for the election of delegates to the state conventions.

Fatal Stabbing Affray at Erie.

ERIE, July 10.—Eight young men engaged in a melee in the suburbs of the city to-night and George Barnhart, drawing a dirk, plunged it into the body of John Strucker, inflicting a wound from which he is now dying. In his deposition he declares that Barnhart deliberately cut him. Barnhart fled and has so far escaped capture. His family is related to Sarah Bernhardt and was visited by her when here.

An Early Morning Wedding.

The Catholic church was the scene of a very brilliant nuptial event at 6 o'clock Thursday morning, at which time Miss Mary Morrison and John Conaghan were united in the holy bonds of wedlock by Rev. Father McArdle, the officiating priest. Miss Morrison, the fair bride, resides at Boiling Spring, near this place, and Mr. Conaghan, the groom, is a resident of Tyrone, and we believe a conductor on the railroad. They were ably supported by Miss Ellen Foley, as bridesmaid and Mr. William McQuillan, as groomsman. Both the bride and bridesmaid were splendidly attired in garnet silk, the groom and his attendant looking regal in conventional black. They presented a captivating picture when grouped before the altar and the happiness which was the chief element of the occasion was depicted in their countenances. May the fair and balmy July morning on which the happy event was consummated be typical of the peace and prosperity which shall attend their wedded lives is the wish of the reporter of the REPUBLICAN.

A Distinguished Party Visiting Bellefonte.

The torrid atmosphere of mid-summer is bringing a larger than usual number of distinguished strangers to our town, the list being increased by a large delegation last Thursday. Among these arrivals we mention Mr. G. W. Stratton, master mechanic of Pennsylvania Railroad at Altoona. He is accompanied by his wife. S. B. Houpt and wife, Misses Woodcock, Stratton, Voris and Kingsberry of Altoona, and Misses Jessup and Baldridge, of Hollidaysburg; also Messrs. Jaggard, C. S. Thomas, W. R. Addicks and R. E. Marshall, of Altoona. The party first visited Bellefonte's beautiful spring and then went to the top of Nittany mountain. They were well calculated to enjoy themselves and doubtless found it one of the pleasantest trips they ever participated in. Their Bellefonte headquarters was at the Bush House.

How Gold Rings are Made.

S. J. Conant in Harper's Bazar.

Gold rings are made from bars nine or fifteen inches long. A bar fifteen inches long, about two inches wide and three-sixteenths of an inch thick, was worth $1,000. It would make three hundred four penny-weight rings. A dozen processes and twenty minutes time are required to change the bar into merchantable rings. A pair of shears cut the bar into strips. By the turning of a wheel, one, two, or three times, the guillotine-like blade of the shears cuts the bar into slices one, two or three-sixteenths of an inch wide. A rolling machine presses out the strips and makes them flat or grooved. Each strip is then put under the blow-pipe and annealed. The oxide of copper comes to the surface and is put into a pickle of sulphuric acid, the bit of gold is stamped with its quality and the name of the maker and is put through a machine that bends it into the shape of a ring, the same machine making a ring of any size. The ends are soldered with an alloy of inferior fineness to the quality of the ring. Many people imagine that rings are run into a mould because they can't see where they are soldered. The ring spins through the turning laths, is rounded and pared and polished, first with tripoli and then with steel filings and rouge.

Drowned in Beer.

Concerning this Popular Beverage two Men Express their Minds.

"The fact is, sir, and you may stick a pin there, that the people of this country are likely to be drowned in a flood of lager beer," shouted an enthusiastic teetotaler the other day into the ear of your cornered correspondent. "That German drink has struck us hard. It is the second deluge."

"Yes, and the worst of this beer-drinking business is that it gets up kidney troubles, as a heavy wind raises the waves," added a city physician, who had a knowledge of the times and a tendency to metaphor. "The midnight 'schooner' leaves behind it a wake of furred tongues, headaches, torpid livers, nausea, and all that, and lays the foundation of Bright's Disease."

This melancholy fact accounts in part for the increasing sales of BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER, which at once mitigates these symptoms. Price 25 cents. Ask your physician about it.

TUTT'S PILLS CURE TORPID LIVER.
TUTT'S PILLS IMPART APPETITE.

DR. TUTT has succeeded in combining in these pills the heretofore antagonistic qualities of a STRENGTHING, PURGATIVE, and a PURIFYING TONIC.

Their first apparent effect is to increase the appetite by causing the food to properly assimilate. Thus the system is nourished, and by their tonic action on the digestive organs, regular and healthy evacuations are produced.

The rapidity with which PERSONS TAKE ON FLESH while under the influence of these pills, indicates their adaptability to nourish the body, hence their efficacy in curing nervous debility, melancholy, dyspepsia, wasting of the muscles, sluggishness of the liver, chronic constipation, and imparting health & strength to the system. Sold everywhere.

Rollins Withdraws.

CONCORD, N. H., July 12--After the announcement of the senatorial ballot in the legislature at noon a letter was read from Mr. E. H. Rollins withdrawing his name as a candidate for United States senator.

Another ballot was taken this afternoon for United Statessenator. Harry Bingham received 113 votes, William E. Chandler 52, Briggs 37, Tappan 30, Marston 25. The remainder were scattering.

The senatorial contest seems as far from solution as ever. Much difference of opinion exists as to the final result. It is claimed that Secretary Chandler has received assurances from a sufficient number to warrant the assertion made by his friends that his vote to-morrow will reach upwards of 70. His opponents say he will probably obtain the support of some who gave scattering votes to-day and that his total majority will amount to 60. His candidacy they also declare will engender sufficient opposition to prevent his election. Most of his strength to-day was gained from Rollins, and some Rollins men to-night state they will change to-morrow. It is understood that Briggs and Stevens held a private conference to-night, it is supposed to arrange for the transfer of the latter's support to the former. Possibly two ballots will be taken to-morrow, after which an adjournment will occur on Tuesday. No one believes that an election will take place before next week.

What Randall Wants.

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—The Times to-morrow will say in answer to the suggestion of a New York journal that Hon. Samuel J. Randall was a candidate for president and might go out of the contest for speaker to enter the presidential race. the ex-speaker to-day said good naturedly, but with unmistakable emphasis: "I am a democrat and nothing else. My name will go before the democratic caucus for speaker I know enough to feel certain that I will be its nominee for that office. If there shall be any bolt it will not be any friend of mine and all statements to the contrary are entirely without warrant. I am not a candidate directly or remotely for any other office than that of speaker. That is all I have to say."

Instantly Killed by a Locomotive.

TRENTON, July 12.—Thomas Waldron, a liquor-dealer, forty-five years of age, was struck by the engine of a passenger train and instantly killed while crossing the tracks of the Belvidere Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad here this afternoon. His sudden death prostrated his wife, who now lies insensible.

Beecher Talks.

CHICAGO, July 13.—Henry Ward Beecher, here on the way to California, stated in an interview to-day that he believed Mr. Arthur would be nominated and elected president, as he has carried himself prudently and gracefully. Talk about Cæsarism is bosh. He sees no reason why the republicans should go out of power. But although he is a free trader he will vote for it, believing that generally its principles are wholesome, while those of the opposite party are incoherent and unsettled. The signs are that New York and Pennsylvania leaders will lay aside their quarrels and the party will then sweep the country. He saw no significance in Mr. Cleveland's election. He had merely worked for him himself; not that he objected to Mr. Folger, but because Mr. Cornell was killed by the machine for being too honest. If the Archangel Gabriel had been put up by the machine he would not have voted for him. He does not see how we can control human passions by mere legislation for temperance. If selling liquor is a crime, then drinking is also. Drinking is not good, but he believes we have no right to constrain him from drinking. The programme of the friends of temperance should be first moral suasion, then legislation.

A Big Suit against a Bank President.

PITTSBURG, July 11.—C. W. Siemens, the celebrated English inventor, filed to-day a bill in equity against H. S. McKee, president of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Bank, of this city. The suit involves $300,000 and grows out of the failure of the Siemens-Anderson Steel Company, of this city. In his bill Mr. Siemens says he was and is yet the owner of 300 bonds of $1,000 each, payable April 1, 1911, with interest, being part of an issue of 1,000 of similar bonds valued at one million dollars. The bonds were secured by mortgages on the Siemens-Anderson Steel Company's property. Before the Sheriff's sale Siemens alleges he arranged with the Merchants and Manufacturers' Bank to buy in his patents and the bonds and within five months thereafter he would purchase the patents from the bank, giving them the $300,000 worth of bonds in return. The bank, after the Sheriff's sale, transferred the bonds and patents into the hands of the president, H. S. McKee, who, on application from Mr. Siemens, refused to transfer the patents to him, as per agreement. Mr. Siemens now brings suit to compel him to live up to the agreement as president of the bank

Rain, Hail and Flood.

HARRISON, Va., July 13.—A most damaging flood prevailed in this place last night. At about 8 o'clock two angry clouds met just north of the town, and the rain poured down in torrents. Black's run, a small rivulet running through the town, became a mighty river, the water spreading over some of the principal streets. Shocks of wheat from neighboring fields, chickens, fences, small houses and endless drift came pouring through the main thoroughfare. Many private houses were greatly damaged.

BURLINGTON, Vt., July 13.—During a heavy thunder storm at Underhill this afternoon the school house was struck by lightning and badly shattered. All the children were more or less injured, some remaining unconscious for several minutes.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 13.—A disastrous hail, wind and rain storm took place four miles west of this city yesterday afternoon. Fields under cultivation were devastated, fruit trees stripped of their fruit, and washouts occurred on all sides,

Return of the Pauper Emigrants.

LONDON, July 11.—The pauper emigrants who were returned to Ireland by order of the American authorities on the steamers Furnessia and Spain were landed at Queenstown yesterday. All accounts agree in describing them as a wretched class of people. One family, consisting of a man and his wife and five children, were left lying on the wharf for three hours before the officials, who had not been advised of their coming, provided for their wants.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Five pauper Polish Jew families were brought to this port yesterday by the steamer Lydian Monarch. The emigration authorities have notified the steamship company that these immigrants must be returned to London, whence they came.

State Legislation.

HARRISBURG, July 12.—The conference committee on judicial and legislative apportionment bills reported to the house this afternoon of their failure to agree and asked to be discharged. The judicial committee was discharged and a new committee consisting of McDonald, Adams and Garndner appointed. The legislative report was laid over for printing. It will be accepted to-morrow and a new committee appointed.

The discussion in the senate over the motion of Gordon to appoint another congressional conference committee was continued at the session to-night. It lasted two hours, when the emotion was defeated by a party vote.

Riot between Hungarians and Poles.

MT. CARMEL, Pa., July 12.—A riot occurred between fifteen Hungarians and about thirteen Poles near the Reading depot this evening. Stones were freely used and one struck Judge Parsick, cutting a gash in his face. He picked up a large stone and struck Jacob Wanseskey between the eyes, smashing his nose and cutting his forehead and cheek. Wanseskey was picked up insensible and carried into a house. He is said to be seriously injured. The Hungarians threaten to mob Parsick.

A Sensation in the Metropolis.

NEW YORK, July 15.—The announcement that Dennis Kearney would be present this afternoon at the meeting of the Central Labor union drew a larger number than usual of delegates and outsiders to Clarendon Hall. Before the meeting began Kearney harangued the crowd from the outer steps until the proprietor of the hall ordered him to stop speaking. When his name was announced within and a motion was made to grant him the floor uproar and confusion broke out. "What labor organization does he represent," "where did he get the money to come here," was called out. His friends yelled "who is the father of the Chinese act?" At length the motion was lost by a vote of 38 to 12, and Kearney stood outside denouncing the members of the labor union, who opposed him, as blatherskites and dirty loafers. Some of Kearney's admirers hired another room in the same building, and there Kearney made a speech denouncing the labor union anew, announcing himself and all workingmen as protectionists, advocating higher railroad freight and passenger rates, claiming that this would lead to higher wages and abusing corporations. He finally announced that he will call an open-air meeting for Thursday night in Union Square.

A Western Blow.

BENTON, Mo., July 15.—During the storm Friday a mill was blown into the Grand river and completely wrecked. The loss is $8,000. The Presbyterian church was destroyed, causing a loss of $5,000. Many other buildings were badly damaged.

An Atchinson, Kansas, special says: Late information says that Friday's gale extended throughout northern Kansas and the southern counties of Nebraska. Many forests and orchards suffered. In Doniphan county several houses were blown down. At Pomeroy a saw mill was blown down. The storm struck Whiting just as a circus performance was about to commence. The canvass fell upon the audience creating great consternation. No one was seriously hurt except Mrs. Anna Medlerock, who was struck by the falling centre pole, receiving injuries from the affects of which she may die.

A Great Powder Explosion.

WILMINGTON, Del., July 13.—Twenty-five hundred pounds of powder in the press room in the upper yard of Dupont's powder works exploded at 6.45 o'clock. Thomas Pearl, foreman of the press room and Patrick Hanly, a laborer, were killed and Alexander Billings, another laborer, was slightly injured. Pearl had been employed at the works for twenty-five years. The building was damaged to the extent of $5,000. Hanly and Pearl were blown to pieces and their bodies have not yet been found. The shock was felt for many miles, reaching even across the Delaware. Small articles of furniture and crockery ware were shaken to the ground in the neighboring dwellings.

The Canadian Floods.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 12.—Another crib at the Carillon dam, ten feet in length, has been carried away, taking with it about thirty feet of the superstructure. The break is now about fifty feet wide, but owing to the high state of the main river the water in the canal has not fallen to any perceptible extent. Every addition to the opening in the dam increases the difficulty of repairing the structure.

LONDON, Ont., July 12.—No more deaths have been reported. The water has subsided to its normal level. Citizens are furnishing relief. Trains will probably run regularly from to-morrow.

Tom Thumb Dead.

MIDDLEBORO, Mass., July 15.—Charles Heywood Stratton, better known to the public as General Tom Thumb, died at his residence here at 8.30 o'clock this morning of apoplexy. He had been slightly indisposed for a few days but nothing serious was anticipated. The deceased was born in Bridgeport, Conn., January 4, 1838, and was consequently 45 years old. At the age of 14 he entered the service of P. T. Barnum and has been before the public ever since. He leaves a widow who has been on the stage with him since their marriage in 1863.

Mrs. Langtry's Investments.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The records of the treasury departmen show that Lillie Langtry is the owner of $12,700 in three and one-half per cent. government bonds. Her name is on the list of foreign bondholders, and she will receive the interest on her bonds for the first time when the quarterly payment is made the 1st of August next. The treasury officials have been directed to forward the interest as it comes due to the Union Stock bank, England.

Smuggling in the Chinese.

PORT TOWNSEND, W. T., July 12.—It has been discovered that Chinamen in considerable numbers are being smuggled into the Territory from British Columbia. The Collector of the Port succeeded in capturing nine Saturday. The customs force is so small that it is impossible to prevent the practice. As many as fifty are known to have been smuggled in at one time.

Eagleville Dots.

EAGLEVILLE, July 14, 1883.

MR. EDITOR: Nathan Kunes, aged about 23 years, son of Christian Kunes, met with a painful and unfortunate accident on Saturday, the 7th instant, at Daguscahonda. He was about to come home from the back woods where he had been laboring, and in attempting to board a moving train his foot slipped, and in falling under the train both feet were cut off. Another warning to reckless young men.

On last Wednesday, the 11th inst., we buried our old, long-tried friend and citizen, John Lighthammer. He was born in Germany in A. D. 1810 received a good German education and was at one time a member of the "Royal" Guard of the German Legion. He died a member and deacon of the "German Reformed" church, of which he had been a charter member. He had lived in our village 40 years, and by his excellent deportment he made many friends. The universal verdict of his neighbors is that John Lighthammer was an honest man. His remains peacefully sleep in the Baptist cemetery.

Irvin Kunes has recently been putting on airs, such as building a portico, painting his house and otherwise ornamenting his premises.

D. B. Kunes has become the possessor of a very beautiful parrot.

The "Trade" dollar fizzle has created some stir among us. Some of our people are looking 15 per cent. more interested than usual. However, the fraud don't hurt your correspondent much, as he has only one and it has a hole in it. Still it may be useful before long.

Yours, LATROBE

"Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep"

Among the numerous parties who visited the famous Penn Cave on Saturday last was one consisting of several young gentlemen of this place. They were the Messrs. Bullock, Mr. Auchenbach, his cousin, Mr. Fields, of Williamsport, and last, but not least, Mr. "Hardy" Harris, son of Mr. Henry Harris, of Howard street. They entered the boat and sailed through the devious and intricate channels within the dark cavern. They stood erect in the boat and traced their names on the walls of the cavern in letters that will perpetuate them to undying fame. Mr. Harris stood on tip-toe and, reaching to a dizzy height, had traced "Hardy Petriken Har—," but just then the boat tipped slightly and down he went a hundred feet or more into the dark waters. He thought his last moments had arrived and like all drowning men, their flashed before his mind in vivid panorama all the good deeds of his life. They say that "drowning men catch at straws," and the straw that he caught at proved to be the boat, into which he clambered as wet as a half-dozen drowned rats. He will not again attempt to secure fame at such fearful risk to life and limb.

—The third annual reunion of the Soldiers' Orphans "Sixteeners" of Pa. will be held in the opera house, Altoona, on the 15th, 16th and 17th of August, 1883. Special arragements are being made to render the reunion a success and as many of the lady delegates as possible will be entertained free. W. C. Reem, of Altoona, Pa., should be consulted in regard to entertainment not later than August 13. All the members are requested to secure badges by the time of the reunion. The rates at hotels have been reduced and railroads will give excursion rates. Orders for excursion tickets may be obtained of Maj. H. F. Spicer, 23d and Parrish streets, Philadelphia, on or before August 10. Further information obtained of C. Day Rudy, Chief Corresponding Secretary, Harrisburg, Pa.

—Beaver Mills, owned by the Phoenix Planing Mill Company, E. Sturdevant & Co., proprietors, located 7 miles from Julian, now present a scene of the most active and inspiring industry. Our former well known fellow citizen, Mr. F. M. Webb, has control of the entire establishment and it owes much of its deserved prosperity to his superior administrative abilities. Among the other persons who are engaged about the establishment in positions of greater or less responsibility are Mr. I. F. Davis, manager of floating gang; Mr. Gordon Wyche, manager of the store and bookkeeper; and D. E. Dunlap, who turns out the excellent shingles for which the establishment is noted. The keg factory connected with the establishment is running on full time and under the strain of a multiplicity of orders.

—Eighteen persons—three gentlemen and fifteen ladies composed the party that went to Penn cave on Saturday. They spent the entire day at the cave returning late in the evening, and all voted it an occasion of rare pleasure.

A Shining Example.

A prominent member of the Borough Council occupied a comfortable position on the First National Bank steps on Saturday evening. An officer of the law saw him and although the steps had been occupied by gentleman of all degrees of prominence from time immemorial, he resolved to descend upon the councilman and enforce a neglected ordinance which was passed on the 20th of August, 1877. The ordinance in question is quite comprehensive, forbidding all lounging on street corners, steps of public buildings, churches, etc. There was a wordy discussion between the councilman and the conservator of the peace about the existence of such an ordinance, but the law at length became triumphant. This was a shining example which we trust others will heed.

—MRS. Polly Royer, wife of Col. H Royer, who died at her home near Rebersburg, recently, was known as "Mother Royer." She was one of those long-lived, healthful persons who never seemed to be afflicted physically. The illness which culminated in death lasted only about three days. She was in her 83d year and had been married 62 years. At length the course of her earthly life ended and she passed peacefully away.

A Russian Church.

The consecration of the Church of the Saviour, at Moscow, one of the most brilliant features connected with the coronation, took place Sunday. The Czar and Czarina, with the rest of the imperial family, the foreign ambassadors, and an immense crowd of people, were present. This enormous and magnificent temple—"Krahn Spaseetelya" in vernacular—was begun so far back as 1833. Nearly 4,000 laborers for a month were employed in digging out the ground for the foundations, and considerable energy was displayed in building the base, but after a while operations languished and the work went on by fits and starts. The height of the structure is 288 feet, and the style of architecture is the Russo-Byzantine, the building being in the form of a Greek cross surmounted by five cupolas, one on each corner, and a large one, or dome, in the centre. The roof and the frame work of the cupola weigh 1,800 tons, and the gilding on the latter consumed more than half a ton of gold leaf. Above the centre cupola is a massive bronze cross, which can be seen from every part of Moscow. The height of its dome is 369 feet. If the celebrated tower Ivan Veliki were placed under this dome its cross would come fourteen feet short of reaching its inner surface. The Usspensky cathedral might stand within this church. The frames of the windows, each nine yards high, weigh three tons, and the hinges of bronze doors have to support five and one quarter tons of metal. Inside the walls are usual style of Russian churches, and contain a number of jasper pillars, each of which cost upward of $13,000. The total cost of this wonderful building is estimated to exceed 20,000,000 rubles, or nearly $15,000,000. But this is not all. Recently the architect reported that a block of houses in proximity to the aspects, and the synod voted $1,000,000 to demolish the buildings and to construct in their place a terrace. It must not be forgotten that this is the second great cathedral which Russia has raised during the last sixty years, the famous one of St. Isaac's, in St. Petersburg, having been begun in 1819, and consecrated in 1857, after an expenditure of 30,000,000 rubles, $26,000,000. A third cathedral, not quite so large, is also rising at Nijni Novgorod, and will involve an outlay of $10,000,000 before completion.

Reverse of a Bright Picture.

Mr. Tilden as Seen by Eyes Other Than Those of Mr. Watterson—A Helpless Old Man.

A distinguished southern member of one of the houses of congress says that on last Wednesday a week he was traveling from West Point, where his son is a cadet, to New York, and at Yonkers there came on board the train the Hon. Samuel J. Tilden, who occupied the chair next to the southern man until they arrived in the city. "I have never met Mr. Tilden," said this gentleman, "but I recognized him at once; but to be certain I inquired of the servant who was with him, and he verified my impression. Mr. Tilden looks to me like a man in the last stage of decay. He had to be helped into the car and carefully put into his seat, by his servant. He seemed to be utterly unable to help himself. He spoke with a sort of sputter, which made it almost impossible for any one to understand what he was trying to say.

"He was constantly falling into catnaps and slipping down in his chair, and had to be helped up and put straight again. He wanted water about every five minutes, and altogether he seemed like a very old man who is unable to perform the most ordinary offices for himself. One eye seemed entirely closed and the other was dropping and without brilliancy or strength. When we arrived at the Forty-second street depot, another servant, with a carriage, was waiting for him. I was interested and curious to see all of him I could; so I watched him go to his carriage. The servants each took an arm and slowly and carefully helped him into the low coupe which had come for him, and he was driven away. I was much surprised at his condition. His mind may be all right, but his body is in every condition except good. I cannot see what Mr. Watterson meant by giving to the country that story about Mr. Tilden's health. It was cruel and wicked in the extreme, and if it was true, then Mr. Tilden has awfully changed in the past ten days. Of course I did not speak to him. I should have done so if he had shown the ordinary signs of consciousness of things about him. Unless all signs fail, he is a very weak old man."

Wages for Workmen.

It is for the benefit of employers and not employed that we allude to the wage question. Increase the wages you pay employes. You can do so, because your wealth is greater than in former years. That strong men who perform very difficult work, before which you would shrink like a child, should receive only $1 a day for their toil is a shame There are instances of this in Bellefonte and we blush for the employers who can permit such an outrage. It is not enough to keep soul and body together. We do not wish to be considered what is known as a labor agitator, but we want our rich men to act as if they were the possessors of hearts and consciences.

Sponge female underclothing is the latest sensation.

Tyrone's Tribulations.

An exciting occurrence in Tyrone last week is about as follows: Fifteen engineers arrived in the railroad yard with their engines and were delayed, through no fault of their own, in putting their engines away for the night. They were out of patience and determined to show it to the world. Simultaneously they turned the steam on the whistles of their locomotives and such a piercing shriek as rent the air in that vicinity was never heard before. Several mill and tanning whistles took up the echo and the entire town was resonant with the noise. It was supposed that every house in Tyrone was on fire and the fire companies turned out. When the matter was investigated it was discovered that the fifteen engineers were the instigators of the rumpus and they were instantly suspended—given a two weeks' vacation—at the expiration of which the railroad company will be glad to secure their services again.

THE "Democratic press" is really in a bad way, and the amount of agony it appears to suffer over the action of the Republican convention is enough to inspire compassion in the heart of a stone. If the convention had only known that it was going to cause such anguish by declaring a good platform, and making a good ticket, it might have shrunk from the consequences. The probabilities are, however, that it never entered the head of one of the delegates, that it was any of the "Democratic press" business. Hence this fearful uproar.

—Many of the people living in Cheapside are of opinion that a policeman is needed who resides in that part of town and who, from the very fact of being there, will be able to exert proper control over certain youthful offenders whose actions deserve punishment. Some of the boys living in that locality have, it is stated, recently been guilty of very outrageous proceedings and the afflicted victims of their mischievous pranks are meditating condign and severe punishment.

—Our friends of the M. E. church expected to hear Rev. Mr. Lippincott, of Carlisle, on Sunday, but that gentleman was unable to put in appearance. It appears that he had a choice between a trip to Bellefonte and one to Arizona Territory, and very sensibly took the latter, trusting to future good fortune to visit Bellefonte. Consequently the disciples of Wesley either remained at home or visited their sister churches.

—A special car containing Superintendent S. S. Blair, of the Pennsylvania R. R., arrived in Bellefonte Monday morning. He went with Edmund Blanchard, Esq., President of the B. and B. R. R. R., over the route of the latter road and will probably purchase it from the gentlemen who now own it, consisting of Judge Chas. A. Mayer, Gen. James A. Beaver, J. D. Shugert, Frank McCoy and three or four others.

—The Dayton (Ohio) Daily Journal speaks as follows of Mr. C. G. McMillen, who is now visiting in that city:

Mr. C. G. McMillen, proprietor of the New Brockerhoff House, Bellefonte, Pa., is in the city. Mr. McMillen was born and raised in Dayton, was for a number of years with Louis Reibold, and is one of the best hotel men in the country.

The Millersburg, (Dauphin county,) Herald, contains the following notice of two young ladies well known in Bellefonte:

Misses Jennie Pontius and Lulu Harper of Bellefonte, have left the beautiful county seat of Centre, to spend a portion of their vacation in Millersburg. They are stopping at B. F. Rudy's, on Union street.

Harvest Home Festival.

A grand harvest home festival will be held at Clintondale camp ground on Saturday, July 28, commencing at 10 o'clock a. m. A special invitation is extended to all Sabbath schools to be present. Addresses will be made by prominent speakers. By order of COMMITTEE.

—Samuel Hartman, who went away from his home in Bellefonte three years ago next Monday, returned on Saturday. He has been traveling with Robinson's circus in the South since his departure. Sam seems to be pleased with that mode of life.

IT it reported that a Crawford county man named Noecher shot at and killed his mother-in-law on Thursday night under the supposition that she was a burglar attempting to break into the house.

—A new flag-stone walk has been laid along the west end of the building in which Valentines Store Company, "Limited," is located.

—Sunday was an excellent day for Baptists, but had a drowning effect on the adherents of other church societies.

Death of a Little Girl.

On Saturday last little Jeannette Celia Wolf, eldest daughter of Mr. George Wolf, of Allegheny street this place, became ill of that terrible scourge of childhood, cholera infantum, and died on Sunday morning. She would have been three years of age on the 28th of August had she lived until that time. She was an attractive little girl and her death, occurring so suddenly and unexpectedly, will be much lamented by her nearest and dearest friends. How consoling, then, when we remember that Jesus said, "Of such is the kingdom of Heaven." The funeral occurred at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The New Depot Building.

We are assured that the rumor current on the street that the erection of the new Pennsylvania depot in this place will begin this week is not correct. New plans have been matured by the board of managers which include arrangements that will be more satisfactory to the people of the town than those which have been given to the public. What those arrangements are we cannot state, but are told that the project of a building over the race has been abandoned.

—There are notices painted on boards and placed along the railroad tracks near Bellefonte warning people not to walk on the track. People read them but do not pretend to heed. The most staid and sober folks make a constant habit of walking on the railroad track, but do so at the risk of their lives.

Business Notices and Other Items

—The mite society meeting at Gen. Beaver's Friday evening was well attended and enjoyable.

—Several foreign letters—Italian or Hungarian—are displayed in the post office. We shall not attempt to reproduce the addresses on these missives.

—All kinds of groceries at Sechler's store.

—Mrs. Fortney, of Boalsburg, mother of D. F. Fortney, Esq., of this place is, we regret to state, quite ill and Mr. Fortney has been summoned to her bedside.

—There are 1000 pearl divers on the coast of Lower California. They go down to the watery depths, and bring to the surface the gems of the ocean. In Centre county the people are not required to encounter such dangers for gems, but can at Sechler's store obtain groceries which are the equivalent of gems at very light expense and trouble.

—Mr. John Gingbery, quite an aged gentleman living near Curtin's Works, died suddenly on Monday, July 9. He had complained of feeling unwell, but no apprehension existed of a fatal termination of his illness. His death was an unexpected and severe blow to his friends.

—Sechler's groceries are as good as any offered for sale in this vicinity.

—It is probable that the New York League base ball club will soon play a game with the Altoona nine at the latter place.

—The REPUBLICAN has saved many dollars to Centre county people by directing them to Harry Teats & Co's for groceries.

—Mr. E. C. Humes, President of the First National Bank, is making arrangements to lay a substantial new pavement on the Allegheny street side of his property.

—Let us whisper it in your ear—that Harry Teats & Co. will sell groceries cheap for cash.

—The M. E. Sunday school picnic will be held on Thursday, July 26, wind and weather permitting. The Intersection will be the place as usual.

—Although there are new places of interest opening up as summer resorts yearly, the old ones attract the most visitors. Cape May, Atlantic City, Newport, Long Branch, the White Mountains, Niagara, Saratoga, Watkins Glen and Coney Island are splendidly patronized. But in Bellefonte Sechler's grocery store attracts the largest crowd and will continue to do so.

—Harry Green and Temporary Secretary Hughes indulged in base ball practice under the shades of two of Bellefonte's principle church edifices on Friday. The ball was exchanged from side to side with force and rapidity enough to go right through the stone wall, but the church buildings are intact yet.

—All political parties advocate purchasing groceries of Harry Teats & Co.

—Next thing we will hear of John Wagner joining the American rifle team for a voyage to Europe. He was practicing marksmanship, last Friday, on the high ground in the rear of Spring street and succeeded in hitting a store box several yards distant.

—It is universally conceded that Harry Teats & Co.'s store is a favorite among the groceries of Bellefonte.

—Some of our friends of African descent held a picnic on Thursday last, spending the day at some rendezvous along the Lewistown pike.

THE LATEST NEWS.

The Republican Convention.

HARRISBURG, July 11.—But few persons other than delegates were in the opera house when the republican state convention met. The faces of the delegates were unfamiliar, the majority being present in a state convention for the first time. Most of the candidates were in the hall, quietly at work, while the delegates assembled. Members of the legislature, of both parties, were present in force.

The convention was called to order at 12.15 p. m. by State Chairman Cooper.

On motion of General Harry White, General Lemuel Todd, of Cumberland, was elected temporary chairman. The selection of Todd was received with applause. He returned his thanks, and, without further remark, invited the convention to proceed to business.

At 1 o'clock a recess was taken until 3, in order to give the committees time to prepare their reports.

The convention reassembled shortly after 3 p. m. and the committee on permanent organization reported John Cessna for chairman with the usual list of vice presidents and secretaries. The report was adopted and Cessna, upon taking the chair congratulated the convention on the spirit of harmony shown.

Resolutions were reported which we give elsewhere.

Colonel Frank C. Bunnell, Wyoming; C. H. Smiley, Perry; Isaac McHose, Berks; J. A. M. Passmore, Schuylkill; Willis J. Huling, Venango; J. A. Ege, McKean; William Livsey, Allegheny, were placed in nomination for state treasurer.

The first ballot resulted; Bunnell 27, Smiley 16, McHose 27, Hill 9, Ely 8, Passmore 72, Hulings 28, Ege 28, Livsey 32, Irvin 2. No choice.

The second, third, fourth and fifth ballots didn't effect a choice. On the sixth ballot the names of Bunnell, Ely, Smiley, McHose and Hill were withdraws when delegates who supported them voted for Livsey and he was nominated. The ballot was as follows: Livsey, 140; Hulings, 73; Passmore, 22; Ege, 5. The convention then took a recess until 9 o'clock.

At the evening session J. B. Niles, of Tioga county, was nominated for auditor general.

Great Storm in Canada.

LUCAN, Ont., July 11.—The severest storm of rain, thunder, and lightning known for years passed over this vicinity last night. A great deal of damage was done by floods. Fences and bridges were swept away in every direction. Railways are flooded and impassable in several places. Large squads of men are now at work repairing the track on the Grand Trunk railway west of Lucan. No. 2 express train, going west, with a large number of passengers, is delayed here. It is uncertain as yet when the road will be ready for trains to pass. The London, Huron and Brace railroad was also damaged and trains delayed.

LONDON, Ont., July 11.—The river here has risen to unprecedented height, and the destruction of property is fearful. So far as known eight houses have been carried away. Three persons are known to have been drowned. It is feared many others perished, as a large number are missing. Barns have been carried away by scores, and railroad travel is cut off by washouts on the main line at Patton siding and on the Sarnia road. The Kensington bridge and the Oxford street bridge are gone; also a large section of the bridge on the Proof line at the ladies' college. The steamer Princess Louise floated down the stream and carried away the Byron bridge. The water works pumping house is in great danger. It is expected to go. Horses, cattle, etc., have been drowned by scores.

A Fight with Cowboys.

DODGE CITY, Kan., July 10.—About six o'clock last evening a party of five cowboys, under the influence of liquor, mounted their horses to leave the town. Approaching a dance house one of them rode his horse up to the porch and fired off his six-shooter. Two of the others then commenced firing, at the same time putting spurs to their ponies. The City Marshal and his assistants quickly arrived and sent a few shots after the three fugitives. When about two hundred yards away one of them fell from his horse and the other two made their escape across the bridge. Upon examination it was found that the fallen man was John Ballard, a resident of the Indian Territory, who arrived with a herd of cattle from Texas. He had been shot through the jugular vein and was dead when picked up. His friends threatened to kill every officer in town before morning, but no further trouble is anticipated.

Knocked out of Bed by Lightning.

PATCHOGUE, L. I., July 9.—Saturday night, during a heavy thunderstorm, lightning struck the house of John Bunce, at Sayville, shattering it, and going through knocked three children out of bed and struck both Mr. and Mrs. Bunce, burning their legs and feet badly. Mr. Bunce may not recover. Other damage was done in the neighborhood.

An Operator's Negligence.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 9.—An east-bound passenger train on the New England Road collided this evening with a gravel train one mile east of Plainville. The collision occurred on the curve and both trains were running rapidly. The engineer and fireman of the gravel train jumped and escaped. George Knickerbocker, engineer of the passenger train, remained at his post and reversed the engine. He was caught in the wreck, horribly crushed and instantly killed. His brother, his fireman, jumped and escaped. Charles W. Church, the Adams Express messenger, of Hartford, and Charles Griswold, of Waterbury, were in the baggage car. The car was smashed to pieces. Both men were thrown forty feet into an adjoining field. Griswold's body was thrown over the telegraph wires and he was instantly killed. Church's injuries are probably fatal. The passengers were badly shaken up, but none seriously injured. The accident was caused by the failure of the telegraph operator at Plainville to give the conductor of the passenger train orders to wait there for the gravel train to pass. The operator is Charles A. Welch. It is reported that he was arrested to-night.

To-day's Convention.

HARRISBURG, July 10.—The headquarters of the republican candidates is alive to-night with delegates, nearly all of them having arrived. The fight seems to be a general one, and nearly every one of the candidates claim to have the inside track. The opinion seems to prevail that Niles will be nominated for auditor general and Livesy for treasurer. This, however, is mere speculation. A caucus will be held in the morning to agree upon a temporary chairman of the convention. John Cessna seems to have no opposition and will no doubt be chosen and continued permanent chairman. The platform will touch upon the trade dollars, the tariff and most of the points in last year's resolutions. The convention will be called to order at 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

No Walk Over.

LONDON, July 10.—The American rifle team practiced at 800 yards range at Wimbledon this morning. Out of a possible 35, Bull and Brown scored 33 each; Lieutenant W. Scott, 32; Jones and Vanhousen, 30 each; Steward and Paulding, 29 each; Hinman and Cash, 27 each; Polland, 28; Dr. Scott and Smith, 24 each; Rabbeth, 22; Dolan, 21, Colonel Howard, 18; Alder, 11.

The Standard this afternoon says: The score made by the American team beats the best score they made at Creedmoor. The coaching of Colonel Howard is perfect, and the men work absolutely together. Englishmen will have no walk-over in the forthcoming match.

In the contest for the Molineux prize, at 500 yards, Major, Shakespeare, of the American team, tied the top score, making 33 out of a possible 35.

Crop Prospects.

CHICAGO, July 10.—The Farmer's Review, in its issue to-morrow, will publish an exhaustive report on the condition of the crops, based on returns from over one thousand points in the west and northwest. A general change for the better in all crop prospects has taken place in the last two weeks, owing to the succession of rains and the advent of hot weather. The last week or two combined served to bring forward the late corn and push in the spring wheat and oats. The weather has been very fine for the early winter wheat harvest and the crop is now going into stack. The spring wheat and oats crops are unusually promising and are both now nearly assured. It is believed the corn crop is rapidly coming up to its condition in 1882.

A Present to Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, July 10.—General Henry A. Barnum, of New York, and General John F. Hartranft, of Pennsylvania, a committee representing the Grand Army of the Republic, have arrived here, bearing a testimonial from the Grand Army of the Republic to the mayor, common council and citizens of Baltimore in recognition of the welcome and hospitalities extended to the Grand Army during its national encampment in this city in June of last year. The testimonial is a bronze tablet made of metal from the union cannon used in the late war.

The presentation took place at city hall in the afternoon with appropriate ceremonies.

Scoville Files His Answer.

CHICAGO, July 10.—George Scoville filed in the circuit court his answer to his former wife's petition for alimony and relief. He charges her with unnatural and wicked attempts to ruin him, and says that when he was engaged in the Guiteau trial at her request, she, by reckless mismanagement and perverse misconduct, broke up his home and ruined him financially. To the best of his means, he adds, he has treated her handsomely, yet with true Guiteau ingratitude she has labored night and day to prosecute him. Affidavits of George L. and Annie Scoville, son and daughter-in-law of the parties, were also filed to the effect that Mrs. Scoville is insane.

FLIES AND BUGS.—Flies roaches, nats, bed-bugs, rats, mice, gophers chipmunks, cleared out by "Rough on Rats." 15c.

The Irish Land act a Failure.

LONDON, July 10.—The report of the committee of the House of Lords which has had the Irish land act under consideration has been submitted to the House. The committee say that they find that the emigration clause of the act has failed, the modes of valuation of land are unreliable, that the relation between landlords and tenants has not improved, and that tenants have been demoralized, and maintain the hope that a fresh agitation will bring about the passage of a new act.

Can't be Cured.

Who says so? "The best physicians have been, consulted and they all agree that the case is beyond the reach of medicine." Have you tried the new Vitalizing Treatment, which acts directly upon the great nerve centres, and gives to all the vital organs a new life-force and a higher activity? "No; never heard of it. "What is it called?" Compound Oxygen. "Oh! yes, I have seen it advertised, but supposed it to be one of the medical humbugs of the day." If all that we have read about the cures it is making is true, it is the most wonderful therapeutic agent ever discovered. "Where can it be obtained?" Only of Drs. Starkey & Palen, 1109 Girard street, Philadelphia. Now, take our advice and write to them, giving a statement of your condition. You will get a prompt answer, and it will cost you nothing, as they make no charge for consultations. If, like your physicians, they see no hope in your case, they will honestly tell you so. But if they have treated similar cases successfully, they will, in making a favorable report, send such evidence of their professional integrity and skill, and such reports of cases which they have treated, as can hardly fail to give you confidence both in them and in their new and wonderful treatment. All this, as we have said, will cost you nothing.

Misery may love company, but the small boy doesn't when there's a limited supply of fruit cake on the table.

"OH MY BACK!"—Out of fifty persons who are forced by pain to use this ejaculation, on an average forty-nine misapprehend the cause of their trouble. They lay it to a strain, a cold, an excess, a touch of lumbago or rheumatism, or something of the sort. All wrong. Such attacks mean that the kidneys are out of order. Perhaps they mean Bright's Disease. Reader, you cannot cure your lame back too soon. Take Hunt's Remedy, the great kidney and liver medicine. It is a sovereign medicine, and cures all kidney, bladder, liver, and urinary complaints magically.

The single eyeglass is worn by the dude. The theory is that he can see more with one eye than he can comprehend.

Most Wonderful.

Very seldom do we read of an actual case of recovery, where hope had altogether been lost, to equal that which was on Monday investigated by a Dispatch reporter who had heard in various quarters persons talking to their friends of a cure, seemingly little short of miraculous, that had been performed. WM. LINCOLN CURTIS is the name of the young man in question. He is now employed at H. K. Porter & Co's. Locomotive Works, Pittsburgh. His disease was Chronic Rheumatism. The enormous swelling and pain in the joints of his arm soon produced paralysis of his left arm. He gradually grew worse, his ankles and knees were soon even worse than his arms, his cheek bones began to enlarge, spreading his face out of all resemblance to his former self. Two physicians pronounced him hopeless. Peruna cured him Page 27 Dr. Hartman's "Ills of Life.

Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold, a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup, and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10 cts., 50 cts. and $1.00. If your lungs are sore, chest or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cts. Sold by John Harris.

Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint.

Is it not worth the small price of 75 cents to free yourself of every symptom of these distressing complaints? If you think so, call at our store and get a bottle of Shiloh's Vitalizer. Every bottle has a printed guarantee on it, use accordingly and if it does you no good it will cost you nothing. Sold by John Harris.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth! If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. 15 22 1y

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning? The signal, perhaps, of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50 cents to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a million bottles were sold the past year. It relieves Croup and Whooping Cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. For sale by John Harris.

—The Lock Haven Journal says that there were only three bands of music in the Fourth of July parade in this place. That is a mistake, as there were four—The Huntingdon City, Saxton, Zion and Pleasant Gap bands. Try again and come nearer the truth.

—Cherries are now ripe and are brought to town in almost endless quantity. They are readily disposed of, however, at from 6 to 10 cents per quart. Really excellent cherries are scarce owing to the fact, perhaps, that the trees are more difficult to grow in perfection than the common sour cherry.

—We regard with some apprehension the time when Bellefonte will be in telephone connection with Lock Haven. There will be so much communication between the places and Lock Haven is such a wicked city that the evil results of familiarity will outbalance the good influence Bellefonte may bring to counteract them.

—It is said that the Bellefonte and Buffalo Run R. R. is meeting with unexpected and very formidable opposition from owners of property in the immediate neighborhood of Bellefonte, who imagine that the railroad will be a positive detriment instead of an aid to their business. This is an old-fashioned notion which we supposed was exploded long ago.

—The sixteenth session of the Pittsburg Annual Conference of the A. M. E. church will meet in this place on the 3d of October, to remain in session several days. There will be a grand gathering of the dusky members of that church and the members of St. Paul congregation in Bellefonte are already making active preparations for their reception and entertainment.

—Mr. Steele, who has the contract for repairing the planing mill pond, has made such rapid progress that he expects the work to be completed in a few days. The Bellefonte Boat Club will do well to look after their crazy old boat house or it will be apt to swim away when the pond is filled with water. There is every indication that some of the members of this organization will again have the opportunity of taking involuntary baths in the deep water when attempting to navigate in the single scull boat next fall.

—Division of Pennsylvania, Sons of Veterans, met in the Town Hall, Germantown, on Thursday, July 5, for the purpose of transacting business among which was the election of officers, resulting as follows: Colonel, William H. We congratulate our friend Walter Bayard upon his elevation to the position of Major of the State Division We are quite sure he will do credit to the position and will merit even further advancement.

The Marriage Knot Tied Three Times.

Many of the friends of J. Willard Miller, late General Secretary of the Bellefonte Y. M. C. A., have received elegantly printed cards which read as follows:

J. Willard Miller
and
Clara M. Blakeslee,
Married
Friday, June 29, 1883,
Cortland, N. Y.

This conveyed information heretofore hinted at in these columns that the genial and much respected General Secretary had taken unto himself a life partner "for better or for"—but we will not say it, for we trust that the "better" will constitute by far the larger part of their existence. We are enabled through the kindness of a friend to give our readers full particulars of the happy event. The wedding was solemnized at 6.30 p. m. at the home of T. B. Stowell, P. H. D., Prof. of Chemistry in the State Normal School in Cortland, N. Y., at whose residence Mrs. Blakeslee and two daughters resided, Rev. Manley S. Hurd, of Hedding, M. E. church, Elmira, N. Y., being the officiating minister.

The bride, who is a petite brunette with sparkling black eyes and hair looked lovely in a superb robe of cream albatross cloth and satin and wearing a beautiful corsage bouquet. No doubt our friend, J. Willard, appeared his very best, and not a bit frightened, in conventional black. The groom was supported by Mr. Simmons, General Secretary of Williamsport Y. M. C. A., and the bride by her sister, Miss Emma Blakeslee.

After the ceremony all present, including about fifty guests—among whom were representives of Scranton, Williamsport, Elmira and Bellefonte social circles—began the discussion of a very fine collation, filling in the hours most enjoyably until half-past 8 o'clock when all repaired to the depot, to bid a glad and yet tearful farewell to the happy couple who went via Buffalo and over the placid waters of Lake Erie to Duluth, Minn., where their happy home will be for an indefinite time in the future and where all hope this estimable young man, in whose career so many Bellefonte people are interested, may enjoy indeed a blissful future with his worthy bride. Mr. Miller's work in Bellefonte was so replete with gratifying results that we cannot doubt that, with added experience, he will be more than successful in the enterprising western city in which he will henceforth reside. We are sure that his fair wife cannot but be happy.

Again our pencil is engaged in recording a wedding which occurred on Tuesday evening, the 3d of July, the contracting parties being Mr. R. S. Brouse, the trusted employe of Billings Bros., silk manufacturers, Philadelphia, and Miss Mazie Harper, the lovely and accomplished daughter of Mr. William Harper, of Thomas street, this place, and a member of the wealthy mercantile firm of Harper Brothers. Rev. John Hewitt of the Episcopal church performed the ceremony, which occurred at the residence of the bride's father. All the events of the happy occasion were as merry as a marriage bell. Mr. and Mrs. Brouse took the evening train for Philadelphia and Long Branch, expecting to make their permanent residence in Altoona, where we trust much happiness will attend them.

---

On the same day two other of our young friends who are well known entered the wide and constantly extending state of matrimony, and the numerous congratulations are now well nigh over. Mr. Albert Franklin Landis, son of Mr. Harry Landis, of the firm of Gordon & Landis, and Miss Hattie Watson, one of Bellefonte's very pretty young ladies, drove in a carriage to the residence of Rev. W. O. Wright, of Milesburg Presbyterian church and through the holy offices of that reverend gentleman were made man and wife. They immediately went to housekeeping in Mr. Sturdevant's residence on East Curtin street. May untold happiness be theirs.

---

—The celebration at Howard on the Fourth of July was a very fine affair. The attendance is estimated as high as 2500 persons, including a large representation of members of the Grand Army of the Republic from all the surrounding country. D. H. Hastings, Esq., of this place, was the orator of the day, and his address was so affecting as to bring tears to the eyes of many who heard him. Notwithstanding the announcement on the posters that he would conduct the entire celebration, that duty was quite evenly distributed among other notable persons who were present. Our well-known townsman, D. S. Keller, Esq., was also present, delivering an appropriate address.

Great Freight Wreck.

The Altoona Tribune gives the following particulars in reference to the great freight wreck which occurred on Tuesday, the 10th, delaying the mails, and concerning which all sorts of rumors were current in Bellefonte:

A disastrous freight wreck occurred about 5 o'clock yesterday morning at a point west of Juniata bridge No. 5, this side of Spruce Creek. Engine 899, Conductor Richer, was going east with about sixty loaded cars when an axle under a loaded coal car broke, wrecking between twenty-five and thirty cars, and tearing up and blocking both main tracks a distance of three hundred feet. Brakeman George Shadow, whose home is at Duncannon, was caught in the wreck, had one leg crushed and was otherwise seriously injured. Another brakeman was buried under a mass of debris, but luckily escaped with only slight injuries. Shadow was removed to Spruce Creek where the company physician at that point amputated the injured leg, and he may possibly recover. The cars broken were loaded with produce and coal. A wrecking force was summoned at once and the main tracks were cleared by throwing most of the wrecked cars over the bank. All trains were delayed several hours, the first passenger train west not arriving in this city until 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Yesterday morning very exagerated rumors concerning the accident were circulated in the city, some reports placing the loss of life at five and six. We are glad it was not of such a serious nature, though the loss to the company is quite serious.

Teachers of the State.

The twenty-ninth annual meeting of the State Teachers' Association opened at Williamsport on Tuesday, the 10th inst., with bout 400 teachers present. Among the notables who looked on at the first meeting of the gathering were President Geo. W. Atherton, LL. D., of State College, and Prof. J. Y. McKee, of the same institution. Addresses of welcome were made by Superintendent Trauseau, of the city schools, and County Superintendent Riddell. Mayor Henry C. Parsons also welcomed the association in a very appropriate speech.

President Schaeffer, principal of the Kutztown normal school, delivered the inaugural address. His subject was the "Training of the Will" and his address, which was able and eloquent, required over an hour in its delivery. An extensive exhibit of school work is made.

In the afternoon the county superintendents held a meeting to discuss educational matters and exchange views regarding school subjects. State Superintendent Higbee presided. The question of county institutes was thoroughly discussed at the evening meeting of the teachers' association. Addresses were delivered by James McAlister, superintendent of Philadelphia, and President Atherton, of the State College.

Information Wanted.

The following message, which may prove interesting to some of our readers, has just been received:

CORNPROBST'S MILLS, July 2, 1883.

DEAR SIR: I am informed that some time in 1882 there appeared in the Daily News an advertisement for three heirs by the name of Pool. I think I know the persons referred to and would like to have the address of the person who advertised for heirs. You will do me a great favor by sending a card and telling what you remember about it.

Yours truly, C. KIDDER.

Cornprobst's Mills, Huntingdon county, Pa.

We do not remember the advertisement referred to by our correspondent, but if those who are interested in the search for the Pools aforesaid will correspond with Mr. Kidder they may, in the stereotyped language used in relation to such inquiries, "learn something to their advantage."

—Rev. M. P. Hocker, pastor of the Lutheran church at Steelton, was married on the 5th inst., to Miss Millie Fernsler of Union Deposit. Rev. Reese of Hummelstown performed the ceremony. The happy couple are spending their honeymoon at Bellefonte, Centre Co.—Steelton Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. Hocker are guests at the hospitable home of our well known citizen, Mr. C. T. Gerberich, where they are enjoying that rare entertainment which Mr. G. and family extend so liberally. They are pleased with Bellefonte and are inclined to prolong their visit to the fullest extent their honeymoon tour will permit. Rev. H. is a popular young minister, recently graduating from the theological seminary.

—We have received a pamphlet telling all about the tragedies incident to the recent Dukes-Nutt affair over in Fayette county. We have no doubt it is blood-curdling enough to satisfy the most morbid mind, but with us life is too short for such trash. It is printed by Barclay & Co., Philadelphia, and those who want it are privileged to send for it.

"A Feast of Reason and a Flow of Soul."

By reason of Constans Commandery No. 33, Knights Templar, being so fortunate as to have stenographers belonging to its organization we are enabled, through the kindness of J. Irwin Hagerman, to give our readers the remarks in full made by Eminent Sir J. L. Spangler on the occasion of the presentation of a Grand Prelate's uniform to Eminent Sir Rev. John Hewitt, the newly elected Prelate of the Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania, and his reply.

Eminent Sir J. L. Spangler said:

EMINENT COMMANDER:—At the recent Annual Conclave of Knights Templar assembled in the city of Lancaster, by conspicuous and significant partiality, you were elected and installed Grand Prelate of the Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania. The promotion of a member of Constans Commandery to the exalted position of Grand Prelate of that grand body is a matter of peculiar gratification to this Commandery. Your promotion is our promotion, your success ours also. The dignity and distinction conferred upon you by the Grand Commandery, in part, is reflected back on this Commandery, over which you at this moment have the honor to preside as Eminent Commander. The office of Grand Prelate will afford you a most excellent opportunity to teach and exemplify those ancient principles of truth, honor and chivalry which form the basis of modern Knighthood. Your honorable profession, as teacher of divine truths, your ability, zeal and industry most eminently qualify you for the varied duties of that exalted position. I trust you may attain the highest aspirations of your life. I have no doubt, Sir Knight, that you will impress upon the hearts and consciences of Sir Knights of this Commonweath, with all your ability and zeal, those sentiments of chivalry and knighthood characteristic of our brotherhood. In your efforts thus to teach and exemplify the principles of our order, you will always have the hearty support of Constans Commandery. You can constantly rely upon the friendship, support and sympathy of your own Commandery.

As a mark of the evidence of their esteem, friendship and affection for you, I am authorized, on this occasion, to present you with a most valuable and beautiful gift, a full and complete outfit and regalia of a Knight Templar, with the insignia of your office as Grand Prelate of the Grand Commandery. This regalia consists, as you will observe, of a beautiful chapeau, cap, baldrick, belt, sword, gauntlets and valise. On each article making up this magnificent gift, you will not fail to have observed the impress of our order, the "Holy Cross," which teaches you and all of us, that we are the sworn friends of the Cross. Permit me, Sir Knight, to recall those memorable words of an illustrious predecessor, in the office o Grand Prelate, who on a similar occasion said:

"The Cross will take the world. Let me entreat you to live beneath its influence, walk in its light, rest in its shadow, and when life's work is ended, the last battle having been fought and won, lay you down at the foot of the Cross and die, and He whose right it is will present you to His Father to be crowned with glory and immortality."

This is the highest and best greeting of Constans Commandery to a faithful and devoted soldier of the Cross. I now present you in behalf of Constans Commandery, with this beautiful and exquisite present, the highest evidence of their love and affection for you. May you live long and be happy.

Eminent Sir Rev. John Hewitt, replied:

Sir Knight Spangler and Sir Knights of Constans Commandery:

You are well aware how utterly impossible it is for anyone, under circumstances of such great surprise, to make a proper response to such an address as that which Sir Knight Spangler has just given utterance to and particularly to use fitting language, to express thanks for such a token of regard and esteem as this which is displayed before me now. But I cannot accept it without saying a word to my friends, the Sir Knights here, and all those of this Commandery. Perhaps I cannot express as I would like what I have to say, but what is in my mind is this: whatever honors the Grand Commandery of the State of Pennsylvania has conferred upon me are not mine, but belong to Constans Commandery, in the first place, that I became a Knight Templar; it is due, also, to Constans Commandery that I have been so advanced in Templarism as to gain the position I now occupy of Grand Prelate. Whatever honors, therefore, belong to this office are in the care and keeping of Constans Commandery, and in the use of the regalia now presented to me, I shall always feel pleasure and entertain grateful recollections of the many kindnesses which have already gone before it, not only from Constans Commandery, as such, but from every member of it individually.

Would to God that I might be able to perform the duties which devolve upon me, in my several relations to you, in the position of Grand Prelate of the State of Pennsylvania, and of Eminent Commander of this Commandery, in such a manner as that they might have a lasting effect upon the minds and character of every Sir Knight connected with this Commandery, and of the entire jurisdiction.

It is something to me, Sir Knights, to know that I have earned your good will and affection, and I assure you I feel that it has been full, without stint, without restraint. Never do I meet any member of this Commandery without feeling that I have in him a brother and a friend. However opposite our several occupations, I feel that we meet upon the level and part upon the square, and I trust that this new token of esteem will, if possible, bind us still more closely together in the bonds of fraternal love and affection, and make us more earnest in our efforts to exemplify the divine truths which our order is intended to inculcate, not only for the benefit of ourselves, but for the benefit of the community in which we live.

Sir Knights, accept my sincere thanks.

—Our friend, Mr. William Shortlidge, the indefatigable and very capable chairman of the Water committee of council, deserves infinite credit for his incessant and unrequited labors in connection with the special department under his supervision and control. He spends a large portion of his time at the Water Works and during the past few days has accomplished many changes which will eventually result in increased economy in the operations of that important institution. His investigations extend through a period of many years, during which he has studied the mechanism and workings of boilers in general, and the water works boiler in particular, and we think our readers will agree with us that he has as completely mastered the subject of a proper water supply for Bellefonte as any other single individual in this vicinity. He has the confidence of a majority of his colleagues in council and we think that it is proper and perhaps absolutely necessary that he should have the confidence, support and co-operation of whoever may hereafter fill the position of engineer at the water works.

—In his address before the State Teachers' Association at Williamsport, Tuesday evening, July 10, on "The kind of education demanded by the times," President Atherton, LL. D., of State Agricultural College, said that we need to combine in our theory of education the best that is in the old theory with the best that is in the new. The new theory of education is to acquire the mental discipline of the old and to obtain an effectual equipment for performing the practical work of life. The training of the faculties he regarded as even more important than the acquirement of knowledge. Education is first for the training of the mind, and, secondly, for the imparting of information.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Dunkle are rejoicing over the advent of a pretty baby boy into their household. John considers that this is a greater event than promotion to the position of deputy sheriff or receiving the contract for the Spring creek bridge.

PE-RU-NA

Is a new remedy, originally compounded and introduced to the medical profession, and then to the public at large, by S. B. Hartman, M. D. He has prescribed it to over 40,000 patients with the most gratifying results.

Its effect upon the system is entirely unlike that of any other remedy, and is the only medicine needed in almost every disease to which flesh is heir. In Constipation, Diseases of the Liver and Kidneys, MANALIN should be given with it.

PERUNA is composed of purely vegetable ingredients, each one, according to medical authors, a great remedy in itself.

Dr. Hartman has succeeded in extracting and combining the active principles of these ingredients into one simple compound, which perfectly coincides with the VIS MEDICATRIX NATURA in every disease, and a cure necessarily follows. There is not an organ it will not reach nor a disease it will not cure.

Notice.

Our solicitor and collector, Mr. A. B. Steele, will visit Sandy Ridge, Philipsburg and vicinity next week. We hope our friends will be prepared to receive him.

—A charter was granted on Friday for a new bank at Lock Haven. Capital $100,000.

—Immense stones are being unloaded from the cars for use in erecting the Spring creek bridge abutments.

—Read Dr. T. R. Hayes' letters. They contain about as much information to the square inch as any European letters we have ever read.

—Mr. Walter Agar, of Lock Haven, won the checker championship of the state in forty-five games played on Wednesday and Thursday with Mr. W. C. Brown, of Altoona.

—Mr. Jenkins, of Linn street, has purchased the lot west of his present residence and is fencing it in probably with the intention of extending the dimensions of his premises.

—Shearing sheep is quite a common practice in this as well as other farming communities, but who ever heard of shearing a goat? Perhaps Mr. David I. Parsons will answer that question.

—Among the Democrats who long to be associate judge are John Rishel of Patton township, Henry R. Smith, of Ferguson; Daniel Fleisher, of Potter, and Dr. J. R. Smith, of Pine Grove Mills.

—Boys will make playthings of very uninviting objects. A Lamb street boy was observed on Friday with a water snake and seemed to be much amused with its effort to crawl away from him.

—A new device has been adopted to encourage base ball players to do their best. It is to place a keg of beer on third base and permit each player who reaches that point to take a drink of the beer.

—Mr. John Uzzle, of Snow Shoe, was slightly but not seriously injured on Wednesday. He was assisting to raise a barn when one of the timbers fell striking him on the leg. He feels somewhat sore, but is able to be about as usual.

—Ascending an eminence on Thursday and taking a birds-eye view of the surrounding landscape we observed that the boat house on planing mill pond has been put in an upright position and is ready to receive the flood of water.

—Three letters from Dr. T. R. Hayes, who is now traveling in Europe, are published in this issue. The two first will be found on the 2d page and the third on the 8th page. Read them as they are excellently written and very interesting.

—The hotel at Unionville, formerly presided over by Mr. Thomas Taylor, is now under the control of Mr. A. J. St. Clair. It maintains the excellent reputation which it has always had of being one of the very best hotels in the county.

—Quite extensive improvements are in progress on the property of the Friends' society on Spring street. One of the huge trees in the yard was felled on Friday. The old fences will be torn away and replaced with new ones and the carriage house will be raised.

—Presbyterian announcements are to the effect that the Beaver Band will meet at the residence of Mrs. Isaac Mitchell; the Crittenden Cadets at the residence of Mrs. Evan Blanchard and the Loring Band at the residence of Mrs. Fearon Mann, all on Friday evening of this week.

—We wonder if that was one of the fair Bellefonte lady teachers who, during a steamboat ride on the river near the city of Williamsport, last Wednesday, became so enraptured with the surrounding scenery that she dropped her purse in the water and was unable to recover it again. The full amount was collected for her among the teachers.

—Fifty-two delegates attended the Window Glass Workers' Association Convention in session at Pittsburg last week. President Cline was elected temporary chairman and Frank M. Gessner secretary. For permanent officers Samuel E. Githens, of Woodbury, New Jersey, was made president; W. H. Morgan, of McKeesport, and G. W. Morenas, of Cleveland, New York, vice presidents; and Frank M. Gessner, secretary. The work of the convention gives general satisfaction.

The Churches of Chester.

THIRD LETTER.

LONDON, England, June 30, '83.

We were so much pleased with Chester that we concluded to spend the Sabbath there. Before rising on Sabbath morning we noticed that everything was very quiet. Our hotel is just at the station, and we have not seen any trains pass all day. The shops and business houses are tightly closed. The streets are very quiet.

At 10 o'clock we started to church and soon we came to a very handsome stone church, and, as it was early, and the sexton was standing at the entrance, we asked him the name of the church. He very politely informed us it was the Wesleyan chapel and invited us to enter. We told him who we were and said we wanted to go to Presbyterian church. He was so cordial that we entered the church and found it very pleasant and beautiful. Soon the pastor came in and we were introduced to him. He talked to us pleasantly and told us there were two Presbyterian churches in Chester and directed us to the nearest one himself. We thanked him and left before service commenced. We soon came to the Presbyterian chapel built of stone, but not so handsome as the Wesleyan. We were politely showed to a pew. From the singing we heard below we inferred the Sabbath-school was closing. And in a few minutes the teachers and Sabbath-school children entered the church and took seats. As the church filled up it was astonishing to see so many children. It forcibly reminded me of my early days when we children were expected to go to church, rain or shine, just as regularly as the Sabbath day came around. We were handed hymn books and found them to be Watts' Hymns and Psalms with a few other selections—neither was there any music accompanying the Hymns and Psalms. And in looking over the congregation I noticed that the books were all alike. There was a nice pipe organ, however. The congregation, without exception, stood while singing and bowed their heads in prayer.

The church was completely filled, and such congregational singing was a complete surprise. Without exception it was the finest congregational singing I ever heard. It was truly soul-inspiring to hear it. There were no hymn books except the old Watt's Hymn and Psalms and no music to guide you. I sought for an explanation and soon found it. These Presbyterians are in earnest in their worship of God and in their observance of the Sabbath day. They not only go to church regularly themselves, but are particularly careful to take their children with them. The children learn these good old hymns and psalms, by heart, and never forget them. The children's voices joining with the adults add charm and inspiration to the singing. There was always a rustle of the leaves of the Bible when a portion of Scripture was read or the text announced—a beautiful custom. The sermon was delivered without manuscript and was most excellent. We were much pleased with our Sabbath spent in Chester and could readily see we were among a Sabbath-keeping people.

T. R. HAYES.

Poor Victims.

The Lycoming Fire Insurance fraud still excites the minds of the victims. Strong words of condemnation are used against the officers of the company and also against the attorney who joined in the conspiracy to defraud the people. Threats of contest to the end against the iniquitious assessments are frequently made and by many learned in the law it is asserted with much assurance that the company cannot maintain the case. One of the agents of the company has been heard to say that the losses of the Chicago fire have been carried along to the present time and notes then in force and which should have been assessed to pay those losses have been surrendered and assessments to pay them have been made and are being made on notes that were given long after that great loss was sustained. The talk of the attorney and others interested about the great loss of the Milton fire is only a blind—an effort to cover up their iniquity. In fact, this business as far as the company is concerned is very muddy and any one who joins them against the people is sure to come out of the racket with a tarnished character. One cannot wallow in the slums of iniquity and come up clean even if he does "bob up serenely." We may also say in this connection that it is currently reported that the attorney of the company has promised to guard the interest of certain rich and influential policy holders, and has given refunding receipts promising to return the money should the case go against the company, and the query arises, whose interest will he finally serve—the company or these rich policy holders?

A Subject on which the Editor of the "Watchman" is "Mixed."

Editor Republican:

Dear Sir:—In the July 13th issue of the Watchman, the astute local scribe of that sheet makes mention of the visit of Mrs. Edward Mix at Bellefonte, "for the purpose," as he says, "of effecting what is called 'faith cures'"; to wit: "Anointing with oil and praying, assuring her patients that if they will only have entire faith, she will be able to cure them," and then concludes by saying, "It is astonishing that in this enlightened age any one can be found with sufficient credibility to put the least confidence in such silly pretensions."

Permit me here to say that it must certainly be regarded as none the less astonishing that any one possessing ordinary intelligence should attempt to express an opinion upon a subject of which he affects so much ignorance, as the article in the Watchman above alluded to displays.

The writer hereof does not pen these lines with a view to provoke an argument upon the subject of "faith cures," but does so in order to set the above mentioned editor right upon a subject which is commanding the earnest attention of many of the most intelligent Christians of the world to-day, and in justice to Mrs Mix herself.

This woman does not, of herself, propose to effect a cure, but simply points the infirm to Him who "Himself took our infirmities and bore our sicknesses," and who is "the same yesterday, to-day and forever," that "In His name, through faith in His name," they may be made every whit whole.

Her mission, then, is simply to pray with and for the sick and suffering, anointing them with oil in the name of the Lord Jesus in obedience to the command given in the 5th Chap. of James, 14th and 15th verses, (which anointing of itself has no curative power, being only an outward symbol) and pointing them to the promises of God, assuring them that according to their faith in His ability and willingness to heal them, it shall be done unto them.

It seems to be a revival of "the faith once delivered unto the saints," characteristic of apostolic days, and which for so many ages has been lost to a world filled with unbelief.

As to the results of Mrs. Mix's visit here, the facts arising therefrom would furnish the best evidence to judge of the same, but suffice to say—and we know whereof we affirm—a great blessing has been received by a number of the most earnest, devoted Christian people of various denominations in Bellefonte, and who could, if it were necessary, rise up and testify to the divine help they have received in their bodily ailments, through the instrumentality of Mrs. Mix.

VINDICATOR.

Meeting of the Bellefonte School Board.

Friday evening the Borough School Board met in response to notice previously given for the purpose of transacting important business, among which was the election of teachers for the public schools during the ensuing school terms of 1883-4. The election resulted as follows:

No. 1, Principal D. M. Lieb; No. 2, Prof. J. C. Meyer; No. 3, Sallie Meek, No. 4, Kate Hewes; No. 5, Jennie Morrison; No. 6, Lizzie Shortlidge; No. 7, Bella Rankin; No. 8, Annie McCaffrey; No. 9, Clara Strickland; No. 10, Carrie Humes; No. 11, Kate Powers.

The election of a teacher for the colored school was postponed.

Fifty by one hundred feet of ground on the west end of the public school property—the site formerly occupied by the old Presbyterian Wigwam—was rented to Mr. Hammon Sechler on which to erect a building for a private school.

The Curb Market.

That glorious institution known as the curb market is now at its height. On Tuesday morning, July 10, there were twenty-six wagons present; Saturday morning there were seventeen. There was a splendid supply of fruit, vegetables and berries. There were strawberries, beautiful red raspberries, black raspberries and the first whortleberries of the season. New potatoes, onions, smear case, green apples, etc., completed the list, excepting that Rev. Zeigler had a fine collection of flowers on hand and the ordinary number of meat wagons occupied their usual positions. The market began early and was over by half-past seven o'clock. The number of purchasers present was very large and everything offered for sale was readily disposed of, some things being at a premium. The red raspberries and strawberries were all sold in a few minutes.

—The residence of Mr. Jenkins, on Linn street, was struck by lightning at noon Saturday and all the occupants were more or less stunned, although not seriously injured.

Death of a Former Resident of Centre County.

Died, at his residence near Antrim, Wright county, Mo., June 18, '83, Martin Adams, in the 72d year of his age. Deceased was born in Antrim county, Ireland, February 12, 1812, and emigrated to the United States in 1836 settling in Carbon county, Pa., where he resided ten years. He removed to Centre county, Pa., in 1846, where he lived, honored and beloved by all who knew him, until 1871 when he went to Wright county, Mo., all his children except one having previously located there. Few men were more generally beloved than he. Quiet and unobtrusive in his manner, conscientious in the discharge of duty, a friend to the needy, a counselor to the perplexed, a liberal supporter of the Gospel and the institutions of Christianity and a sincere and earnest Christian, his loss will long be deeply felt by his family, by the entire community in which he lived, and by the Presbyterian church of which he had been an honored and useful member from early manhood.

His illness, which was protracted and sometimes painful, was borne with the most perfect resignation and cheerfulness, his waking hours up to the last day of his life being spent in praying God, and admonishing his family, friends and neighbors to be faithful, and to meet him in heaven.

He was the father of ten children five of whom preceded him to the heavenly land and who, no doubt, were among the convoy of angels which he saw a few hours before death, when he looked up and smiled so sweetly and said, "They are coming." His aged wife and his five remaining children were with him during his entire illness and "until the end." Full of years and full of honors, he has gone to the grave "as a shock of corn fully ripe."

May our last end be like his.

Hearty Thanks.

The exercises of July the Fourth are ended, but the memory of them will not be forgotten for a long time to come. The Undine Hose Company are extremely grateful to all who aided them and take this opportunity to express that gratitude. The ladies of Bellefonte gave their assistance in ways to numerous to mention and will please consider the gallant fire laddies' caps tipped in memory thereof; the citizens generally contributed substantial edibles which were most thoroughly enjoyed; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sands, especially, assisted in baking whenever their aid was invoked and will be long remembered by the company; many persons were missed in the collection of eatables who we have since learned, were willing and desirous of giving; they also merit thanks. Hoping that all were pleased with the day's celebration, I am

DAVID I. PARSONS,
Chairman of Canvassing Committee

Two Boys in Deep Water.

Almost a drowning accident occurred in the planing mill pond Thursday evening. Two boys, aged 8 and 10 years, respectively, the sons of Samuel Young, who resides near the old Press Company printing office, went in the water to swim. The water is confined to the channel of the creek, but is about ten feet deep in some places. Mr. Perry Steele, Jr., observed that one of the boys had gone in beyond his depth and being a good swimmer, plunged in to rescue him. By the time he had the first boy safe on land his attention was called to the other, who had also sank into a hole and was unable to extricate himself. He soon had the second boy on terra firma, although they would doubtless have been drowned if aid had not been at hand.

—Thursday's Pittsburg Dispatch contains this brief notice of the Window Glass Workers' Convention in session in that city: "The Glassworkers' Convention convened yesterday at 9 a. m. and adjourned at 11:30, the session having been conducted by the permanent officers. It was devoted to some minor changes in the by-laws of the organization. During the noon interval the delegates had their pictures taken in a group. The afternoon session was a continuation of the morning programme. President Cline and other officials deny that the wages question has been or will be considered. An early adjournment is desired, and the banquet has been postponed."

—Millheim participated in a parade, oration, glass ball shooting, balloon ascensions and kindred diversions on the Fourth of July. The glass ball contest score was C. K Sober, 23 balls out of 25; P. H. Stover, 4 of 6; F. P. Musser, 0 of 7; John Kerstetter, 4 of 6; Clymer Musser, 1 of 9. Mr. Sober afterward broke 20 of 22, standing with his back to the trap and turning around each time before shooting.

Personal Pencilings.

Senator Peale and son are going to Europe.

Principal D. M. Lieb returned from Williamsport Friday evening.

Dr. Hensyl, of Howard, is one of the busiest men in that vicinity. His practice is remarkably large.

Mr. and Mrs. Muffly, of Philadelphia, are visiting Mrs. Muffly's mother, Mrs. Gordon, of Curtin street.

Rev. S. A. Taggert, State Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., is in town. arriving on the 10 a. m. train on Thursday.

Rev. S. A. Taggart departed Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock after a pleasant and profitable day in Bellefonte.

Miss Livingston, of Curwensville, is the guest of the Misses Graham, daughters of Edward Graham, Esq., of this place.

President Atherton, LL. D., took a prominent part in the State Teachers' Association Convention at Williamsport.

Mrs. George Harris and Mrs. Lawrence Brown left on the 11th inst. for Cape May, expecting to be absent several weeks.

Rev. J. F. DeLong and lady enjoyed themselves very much during their vacation visit from which they returned on Friday.

Mr. R. M. Magee, of this place, accompanied by his two sons, arrived home Friday evening from a very enjoyable visit at Atlantic City.

Mr. John Lyon, son of ex-Burgess S. S. Lyon, returned from Philadelphia to spend a short vacation at the home of his parents in this place.

Rev. E. Edwards, pastor of the Baptist churches of this place and Milesburg, has returned from his vacation visit in the city of Wilkesbarre.

Among the fair young ladies now in Bellefonte is Miss Heisler, of Philadelphia, who is visiting her brother, our townsman, Mr. Charles Heisler.

Mrs. E. E. Kline, wife of D. B. Kline, a prominent citizen of Louisville, Ky., is visiting her brother and other relatives in this place. She is accompanied by her two daughters.

Mr. J. A. Stetler, proprietor of the Stetler House at Port Matilda, visited Bellefonte last week and did not fail to give us the benefit of his agreeable presence for a few moments.

Mrs. Joseph Reynolds and her two sons from Memphis, Tennessee, are at present paying a visit their friends in Centre county. Mrs. Reynolds is an aunt of Mrs. S. A. Stover, of Howard street.

Mr. Charlie Rine, the popular tobacconist, returned recently from a brief visit to Williamsport. Charlie has been attending closely to business, and his many friends will be pleased to know that he is building up a large and profitable trade.

Mr. Frank B. Emery, brother of Mr. William Emery, of the Nail Works, this place, who has acted as Empire line agent at Corry for six years past, has been transferred to Evansville, Indiana, to manage the business of the company in that city.

Mr. Nathan Smith and daughter, Miss Martha, of Maryland, have recently been guests of the family of Mr. Benjamin Rich, of Unionville. Mr. Smith formerly resided in this State. He has traveled much through the West, his wide experience rendering him exceedingly entertaining and companionable.

Rev. J. F. DeLong, pastor of the Reformed church, returned from his vacation Friday evening, accompanied by Rev. Prof. T. M. Balliet, superintendent of common schools in Carbon county. Prof. Balliet occupied the the pulpit in the Reformed church last Sunday morning and evening at the regular church hours.

Mr. James Craig, now located at Dennison, Ohio, and engaged as an engineer on the Pan Handle Railroad, recently visited his brother, Mr. John Craig, of Julian. He was formerly a resident of Huntingdon, this State, when he filled the position of foreman of the Huntingdon car shops. He departed for his home on Monday, July 15.

Mrs. W. L. Malin, Miss Fannie Gray and Mr. E. L. Gray, editor of the Daily News, departed last Friday for a two weeks' visit in Philadelphia and Atlantic City. Mr. Malin accompanied the party as far as Tyrone. The ladies will spend several days in Goshen, visiting relatives of Mrs. Malin. We have no doubt they will enjoy themselves thoroughly.

Among the guests who are now making the Bush House their home with the expectation of remaining some time are W. A. Clark, wife and child of New York; John L. Lides, wife, two children and nurse, of Philadelphia, and J. K. Davis, wife, two children and nurse, also of Philadelphia. They constitute a very pleasant company and will doubtless enjoy the rest which the elegant hotel and its agreeable surroundings afford.

Rev George Pepe acker is expected home this week.

Miss Emma Greth spent Sunday with the family of Mrs. Beck at Fowler.

Miss Furst, of Lock Haven, is the guest of her relatives, A. O. Furst, Esq., and wife, of Linn street.

Miss Stone, of Coatsville, is the guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Stone, at the mansion of the late Mrs. Judge Hale on Allegheny street.

Miss Luther, of Ohio, who has been the guest of Miss Sallie Hoffer, of this place, during the past two weeks, departed for her home on Saturday last.

Mrs. Charles Miller, of this place, returned home on Saturday evening from Johnstown, where she has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hoover.

Mrs. Dr. Russ, of Philadelphia, a guest of Miss Mary Brockerhoff, sang charmingly in the choir of the Roman Catholic church Sunday morning and in the Protestant Episcopal church in the evening.

Mr. Harry Hicks is recovering from an illness which has confined him to the house for several days. We regretted to learn of his indisposition and hope that his recovery will be speedy and permanent.

Mr. A. J. Fiedler and family, of Williamsport, arrived in town on Saturday afternoon and are visiting at the Cummings House on Bishop street, which is under the proprietorship of Mr. Brown, Mrs. Fiedler's father.

Mr. George Decker, of Versailles, Morgan county, Missouri, is visiting his relatives in this county. Mr. D. expects to visit California soon where he will probably locate. We hope he will secure a place of residence which will be agreeable to himself.

Mr. William Laurie, the very handsome son of Rev. William Laurie, of this place, is taking a temporary respite from engrossing business affairs in Philipsbury, and is giving his Bellefonte friends the benefit of his presence among them.

—A great excitement occurred at the depot Friday morning and an elopement was prevented by the vigilance of the eloping lady's husband. He is an Italian and they were recently married, the lady's maiden name, we believe, being Bathurst. They resided in the vicinity of Bush's row. She tired of her new-found companion and decided to go off with another man, also an Italian. But her spouse caught her at the depot and after a frantic fight reclaimed her. What the outcome of this will be the future alone will determine, but we advise the female in question to choose one husband for better or worse—even if he is an Italy-man.

Death of Mrs. John S. Proudfoot.

Last Saturday morning, at 7 o'clock, Mrs. Proudfoot, wife of ex-Judge John S. Proudfoot, died at her residence in Milesburg. She was 71 years of age and leaves several children, two sons in New Mexico, one in Detroit, Mich., and one in Ohio. Funeral last Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock from her late residence.

—Mr. Isaac Thomas has not yet moved into his elegant new residence, but expects to do so about the first of September. It will be very complete and entirely finished before he occupies it. It now presents a very fine appearance. The grounds have been sodded and the grass is growing finely. Terraces descend toward the street and a stately iron fence protects the enclosure from trespass.

—Bellefonte is thronged with pretty girls.
